ITALIAN KILLED IN MARLBOROUGH

shooting Followed Festivities of a Sunday Night Party—One Dead and Another Badly Hurt—Gunman Has Escaped.

An Italian shooting affray occurred a mile and half south of Marlborough, near the Orange county line, at 1:30 o'clock this morning, resulting in the death of one Italian and the serious injury of another.

Tony Del Vech, the Italian who did the shooting, made his escape but Under Sheriff Hornbeck and other officers are searching for him and expect that he will be captured. The peculiarity of Marlborough shooting cases, that it is difficult to procure the names of the persons engaged in the shooting, is present in this case, and it was impossible to get into communication with officers who knew the names of the dead man and the other victim. The shooting was not reported to the sheriff's office until after eight o'clock this morning.

From the story told to the sheriff's office and the district attorney's office, it appears that Del Vech had a party at his home Sunday night which was attended by a number of fellow countrymen. The two men who were later shot by Del Vech went away at an early hour, but returned some time after the party had broken up and Del Vech had retired. They tried to gain admittance to the house, but Del Vech refused to admit them. After creating a disturbance in the roadway, they went away, but returned a second and a third time.

On their last visit, they pounded on the door to arouse Del Vech, and failing to get a response they began shooting. Del Vech raised his window in the second story of the house and fired a shot at both men, who dropped where they were standing. One died instantly and the other was quite seriously injured. Del Vech made his escape from the house without telling his family the direction he intended to take.

Cornor Suitor of Marlborough was examined and held an examination. The dead man's body was removed to an undertaking shop and this afternoon his companion was taken to Newburgh for treatment.

DAY'S DOINGS IN CONGRESS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, March 13.—House and senate met at noon.

House naval affairs committee heard peace advocates in opposition to preparedness.

House public lands committee considered legislation to dispose of California and Oregon land grant.

House considered legislation for the District of Columbia.

Senate judiciary committee discussed prohibition legislation.

Senate voted 31 to 27 to go into executive session at 12:20 to act on appointments.

MAGAZINE AGENT IS FREED.
Alleged Swindler Had Contract With Magazine for Which He Collected.

That William L. Chambers was a duly authorized agent of the Police-Man's Monthly for which he took subscriptions in Kingston and other cities in the Hudson Valley was proved in recorder's court Saturday in Newburgh and Chambers discharged from custody. He was charged with obtaining money under false pretenses.

While Chambers admitted he had not turned over money collected from peddling coppers, he said he held this up because the publishers had not allowed his commissions of 65 to 70 per cent. Inasmuch as Chambers obtained the money he could not be held on the charge preferred against him.

First Dutch C. E. Note.
The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Reformed Church will have charge of the prayer meeting on Thursday evening, March 16.

The leaders will be Albert Deyo and Harper Leeper, and the subject will be "Prayer." All the young people of the church are especially invited to attend this service. Those who attend are asked to be prepared to recite voluntarily familiar verses of Scripture bearing on the subject.

On the evening of Wednesday, March 22, a supper and social for the members of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Reformed Church will be held in the chapel of the church. Supper will be served promptly at 6 o'clock. Tickets for the supper will cost the small sum of ten cents. All the members of the society are cordially invited to be present and help make the evening an enjoyable one.

Get Tired of Newburgh Life?
A cat rushed from a store in Newburgh Saturday morning and was brought to pieces under a passing trolley car. Witnesses have not yet determined whether fright or suicide caused the catastrophe.

CITY INDUSTRIES SHOWED INCREASE

Federal Census Taken at Height of 1914 Depression Summarizes Conditions in Kingston Factories and Establishments, Firms and Products.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, D. C., March 13.—A preliminary statement of the general results in the census of manufactures for Kingston, N. Y., has been issued by Director Sam L. Rogers, of the Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce. It consists of a summary comparing the figures for 1909 and 1914, by totals, prepared under the direction of William M. Steuart, chief statistician for manufactures.

The figures are preliminary and subject of such change and correction as may be found necessary from a further examination of the original reports.

The census of 1914, like that of 1909, with reference to manufactures, excluded the hand trades, the building trades, and the neighborhood industries, and took account only of establishments conducted under the factory system. In the last census, also, as in that of 1909, establishments having products for the census year valued at less than $500, except that reports were taken for establishments idle during a portion of the census year, or which began operations during that year, and whose products for such reason were valued at less than $500.

The word "establishment" as used in the census reports may mean more than one mill or plant, provided they are owned or controlled and operated by a single individual, partnership, corporation or other owner or operator, and are located in the same town or city.

The reports were taken for the calendar year ending December 31, 1914, wherever the system of book-keeping permitted figures for that period to be secured, but when the fiscal year of an establishment differed from the calendar year a report was obtained for the operations of that establishment for its fiscal year falling most largely within the calendar year 1914.

"A Consistent Increase."
The population of Kingston at the census of 1910 was 25,908, and it is estimated that it was 26,000 on July 1, 1914.

The statistics represent the establishments located within the corporate limits of the city.

The summary shows a consistent increase in the census of 1914, as compared with that of 1909, for all items except salaries, wages, earnings and wages, for which small decreases are shown. In the order of their importance, the increases for the several items rank as follows: Proprietors and firm members, 37.6 per cent; number of establishments, 19.2 per cent; salaries, 18.5 per cent; capital, 16.1 per cent; materials, 13.9 per cent; value of products, 7.7 per cent; value added by manufacture, 3 per cent; and horsepower, 1.7 per cent.

Capital Invested.

The capital invested, as reported in 1914, was $6,880,000, a gain of $556,000, or 8.1 per cent, over $6,324,000 in 1909. In this connection it should be stated that the inquiry contained in the census schedule calls for the total amount of capital, both owned and borrowed, invested in the business, but excludes the value of rented property, plant or equipment which was employed in the conduct of manufacturing enterprises. In the final bulletins and reports the rental paid for such property will be shown separately.

Cost of Materials.

The cost of materials used was $2,940,000 in 1914, as against $2,582,000 in 1909, an increase of $358,000, or 13.9 per cent. In addition to the component materials which enter into the products of the establishment for the census year there are included the cost of fuel, mill supplies and rent of power and heat. The cost of materials, however, does not include unused materials and supplies bought either for speculation or for use during a subsequent period.

The census inquiry does not include amounts paid for miscellaneous expenses, such as rent of offices, royalties, insurance, ordinary repairs, advertising, traveling expenses or allowance for depreciation.

Value of Products.

The value of products was $6,445,000 in 1914 and $5,986,000 in 1909, the increase being $459,000, or 7.7 per cent.

The value of products represents their selling value or price at the plants as actually turned out by the factories during the census year and does not necessarily have any relation to the amount of sales for that year. The values under this head also include amounts received for work done on materials furnished by others.

Value Added by Manufacture.

The value added by manufacture represents the difference between the cost of materials used and the value of the products manufactured from them. The value added by manufacture was $3,505,000 in 1914 and $3,404,000 in 1909, the increase being $101,000, or 3 per cent. The value added by manufacture formed $4.4 per cent of the total of pro-

Salaries and Wages.

The salaries and wages amounted to $1,821,000 in 1914, and to $1,777,000 in 1909, the increase being $44,000 or 2.5 per cent.

The number of salaried employees was 429 in 1914, as compared with 471 in 1909.

The average number of wage earners was 3,076 in 1914 and 3,281 in 1909.

Summary for the City.

A comparative summary for the city for 1909 and 1914 follows:

	1914	1909	Per cent increase, 1909-1914
Number of establishments	118	99	19.2
Persons engaged	3,638	3,281	10.5
Proprietors and firm members	128	98	30.7
Salaries	1,821,000	1,777,000	2.5
Wages	1,684,000	1,640,000	2.8
Value of products	6,445,000	5,986,000	7.7
Value added by manufacture	3,505,000	3,404,000	3.0

ARMY PREPARING TO PURSUE VILLA

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

El Paso, Tex., March 13.—Preparations for the expedition into Mexico went forward here today with systematic swiftness. Train dispatchers worked through the night and all of today on the details for the movement of troops and supply trains from Fort Bliss and other points along the international border. The dispatchers worked under implicit instructions from the military authorities not to reveal the destination of any train.

A report that trains carrying soldiers from Fort Sam Houston passed through El Paso early today was not confirmed at headquarters here.

Twelve supply cars were shunted onto the Fort Bliss siding today and were made ready to follow the first troop train that starts from here into Mexico. All the Fort Bliss road ambulances and supply wagons were kept in waiting for the order to move.

Company K of the 5th U. S. Cavalry underwent final inspection of mounts and equipment.

The fate of the five hundred residents of the Mormon colony in Casas Grandes was causing grave concern here today. There was no direct communication with the region where the Mormons are reported to be in danger.

Bishop Hursh of the Mormon Church, in El Paso, received word in a roundabout way that the colonists were preparing to leave the danger zone and march aloft across the desert toward the border.

A telegram received by the International News Service from Marion Letcher, American consul at Chihuahua City today, requested that denial be made of the reports that were recent anti-American demonstrations in that city.

"Both the authorities and the people generally are showing admirable poise and self control in the present circumstances." News from other sources in Chihuahua City stated the Americans in that section were en route to the border.

Prohibition at Plattkill.

A prohibition rally will be held by members of the Plattkill W. C. T. U. at the Friends' Church in Plattkill, March 19 at 8 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to all interested in the cause. A silver offering will be taken.

MEXICAN SITUATION AS IT IS TODAY

Officials admit that danger of complications with Carranza has delayed movements of the punitive expedition to capture Villa.

White House says president will agree to Carranza's request for reciprocal arrangement for punitive expeditions along border.

Secretary of State Lansing and Secretary of War Baker confer with president, reporting on general situation.

Border patrol is being strengthened so that forces are in readiness for any emergency that may arise.

War department continues its mask of censorship over all movements in order to prevent Villa knowing what to expect.

Army officers are gravely apprehensive that another expedition against U. S. territory may be attempted at some remote border point.

The president, after talking with congressional leaders, decided not to ask any co-operation from congress at this time.

Senators Stone and Saulsbury and Attorney General Gregory, in conferences with the president, expressed the view that emergency agreement could be entered into with Carranza without authority from senate.

LIFE OF MOSES IN MOVIES.

Record Attendance Greeted Pictures at Y. M. C. A. Sunday Afternoon.

Nearly 1,000 persons crowded the Y. M. C. A. auditorium Sunday afternoon to see the moving pictures from the "Life of Moses," first in the series of Sunday afternoon biblical subjects to be presented. A most interesting pictorial representation of the main events in the career of the great prophet of Israel was given from the finding of the infant Moses in the bulrushes, through the plagues visited upon Egypt and the adventures of the people of Israel in seeking the promised land. The management was much pleased at the expressions of appreciation shown by the large number of spectators. Many were turned away because of the lack of seating space.

Albany Ave. Baptist Church Notes.

An orange social will be held on Tuesday evening, March 14, being given by Mrs. Hull's circle of the Ladies' Aid Society. A play will be presented by members of this circle and other entertainment provided. Dainty refreshments will be served. A delightful time is promised for all who come.

Mrs. Kline's circle of the Ladies' Aid Society will give a variety supper on the evening of St. Patrick's day, Friday, March 17, from five to eight o'clock.

A Church Supper.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Fair street Reformed church will serve a supper on Tuesday, March 14, from 5 until 8 o'clock. The following menu will be served:

Clam Chowder.
Boiled Ham Creamed Potatoes
Cabbage Salad Jelly
Cake Tea Coffee
No chowder will be for sale previous to the supper.

Pictures at St. Mary's Hall.

On Monday nights during lent at St. Mary's Hall moving pictures of educational value will be shown under the auspices of the Blessed Virgin Sodality. Tonight will be a dramatization of Dickens's "Old Curiosity Shop." The admission will be free to members of the sodality but a small admission fee will be charged others.

Rehearsals at Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. Glee Club will hold its rehearsal at 7:45 o'clock to night. The first rehearsal of the big chorus will be held at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night.

BROOKLYN PASTOR CALLED TO KINGSTON

A special meeting of the congregation of the Immanuel German Lutheran Church on Livingston street was held on Sunday evening for the purpose of selecting a successor to the Rev. Frederick P. Wilhelm, who recently tendered his resignation as pastor of the church. A number of candidates were proposed but the Rev. George Schmidt, pastor of a Lutheran Church in Brooklyn, was elected. The call will be read to the congregation at the Lenten service on Wednesday evening, when no doubt it will be ratified and sent to Pastor Schmidt.

Pastor Wilhelm will not leave to take up his work at Bronxville, Westchester county, until his successor has accepted the pastorate of the local church. If Pastor Schmidt does not accept the call from the local congregation another meeting will be called.

DOES NOT EXPECT A CALL.

Militia Not Likely to be Called Out For Service in Mexico.

Despite the fact that President Wilson has ordered the invasion of Mexico, it is not thought in military circles here that the National Guard of this city will be called out to do fort duty or go in camp. No word of any kind has been received here for Company M to stand in readiness for duty although Governor Whitman has been requested by Washington to state the condition of the militia for service. It is believed that New York State guardsmen would be among the first called out if the services of the National Guard are sought.

Sonora Concert Tonight.

By special arrangement the Moose Lodge has persuaded Gregory & Company to have their samples of Sonora Phonograph at the banquet at Kennedy's Hall. This is the machine that won the highest honors of tone quality at the world's fair. The Sonora is always selected in preference when heard in comparison and the Moose always have the best they can get. The banquet will be a largely attended meeting as they have been working hard for a long time for it.

The Pavement Punctures.

Workmen are busy on Broadway near Downs street tearing up the brick pavement in order to locate a break in the gas main. This is the first in some time that the pavement has been torn up but with the opening of spring the open season on brick pavements will again be declared.

Schermerhorn Case Adjourned.

This morning another adjournment of a week was taken in the case of Frank Schermerhorn, the young boy who shot Abie Bacharach. While Abie's condition is improving, he is yet unable to appear in court.

Had Two Chickens Stolen.

John Kelder of No. 177 Henry street, has reported to the police that two of his chickens were stolen from the chicken coop Saturday evening.

Hosea as a Medium.

Hosea Mead was called to Halcottville last week Friday to look after business for his uncle who died about two weeks ago.—Jewett Corr, Hunter Review.

No Meeting of Board of Health.

There will be no meeting of the board of health on Tuesday evening, due to the sudden death of Mayor Canfield's mother, Mrs. Estella Canfield, on Sunday.

Taken to Hospital.

Thomas Hall, the colored cook at the Christ Church School on Pearl street was removed to the Kingston city hospital on Saturday in the city ambulance.

DAY'S WAR NEWS AT A GLANCE

Washington—White House announces Carranza proposal to pursue Villa if he crosses into United States territory. Situation along border delicate.

Paris—French scored success in counter attack against left wing of German army menacing Verdun. Success won in Le Pretre Forest. French penetrating German trench but set off mines and returned original lines.

Berlin—Germans mention no fighting at Verdun during night. Artillery dueling increasing in violence. Four more allied aeroplanes destroyed.

Constantinople—British lost in recent battle at Felahie 5,000 men.

Athens—German hydro-aeroplane bombarded British warships along coast of Asia Minor.

Rome—Italians opened new offensive on Austro-Italian theater of war.

WILSON ACCEPTS CARRANZA PROPOSAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 13.—President Wilson has decided to accept Carranza's proposal. A note will go forward to the head of the Mexican de facto government at once, assuring him that Mexican troops will be allowed to enter the United States in pursuit of bandits at any time should such an emergency arise. Official announcement of the president's decision was made at the White House this morning.

Secretary of State Lansing will hold a conference with President Wilson at 2 o'clock this afternoon. He is expected to lay before the president then the draft of a note to Carranza. If the president approves it, the note will be dispatched to Carranza at once.

Officials breathed a sigh of relief when the president's decision became known. They believe that danger of Carranza's troops opposing the entrance of United States forces into Mexico is now removed.

The president is understood to have taken into consideration the fact that Carranza is placed in a delicate position because of the feeling of his people. The White House, it is known, does not believe that conditions will ever shape themselves so that Mexican troops would have to enter this country. It was stated officially that the reply to Carranza, while granting permission to Mexican troops to cross into the United States in pursuit of bandits, will be so worded that such an expedition would be possible only under the most exceptional circumstances.

Officials declare that the border from now on will be so closely guarded that it will be practically impossible for Villistas to cross over. Should any attempt be made to do so, it is declared, they will be captured by the United States forces and the Carranzistas will be afforded no excuse for following them.

It was made plain at the White House today that the president will not go before congress at this time. He is known to believe that such action might be misconstrued in Mexico and lead to serious consequences.

SHOE REPAIRERS FORM A LEAGUE

At a meeting of a majority of local shoe repairers at the Kingston Hotel Sunday, steps were taken for the establishment of a shoe repairers' league in this city and it was decided to establish a uniform rate of charges for shoe repairing which will be the same as were in effect before the recent campaign for price slashing started. Cards in the shops of members of the league will inform the public which shoemakers are enrolled in the local league. S. Israel was appointed temporary chairman and officers will be elected next Sunday.

The cause of the meeting was to prevent the misleading of the public into the belief that by having work done at reduced prices they are getting a bargain. Instead of this, the customers are getting poorer leather in their shoes and if the custom were allowed to continue, faith in the local repairers would be lost. Concern for the loss of business with out-of-town customers on account of this "bluffing" was expressed at the meeting and it was because of this that the meeting was prompted, not by the rivalry between local shops but because of the predicted loss of trade.

The standard prices which were in effect before the price slashing campaign was started and which have been decided at the meeting are as follows: men's sewed soles, 75 cents; ladies' half soles and heels, 75 cents; men's sewed soles and heels, $1; rubber heels, with the exception of orthopedic heels, 50 cents; orthopedic heels, 75 cents; men's heels, 25 cents; ladies' heels, 20 cents.

Water Wagon Still Crowded.

A prohibition wave must certainly have hit Kingston for the police have not arrested any of the local tipplers for several days past, and there was no cases brought to the attention of Recorder Lang this morning.

WEST SHORE FAST TRAIN FOR FRUIT

Ulster and Orange County Growers

Pledge Themselves to Patronize New Service—Railroad Rates Lower Than Steamboat Lines to New York Markets.

Joint committees of the Hudson River Fruit Exchange, Inc., and prominent independent fruit growers of Ulster and Orange counties, met Friday in Milton to arrange for a special "fast" freight over the West Shore tracks during the fruit season to accommodate the fruit growers. A sub-committee which conferred with officials of the New York Central Railroad on Tuesday reported favorably on the special freight, and the signatures of many large growers were taken, pledging themselves to patronize this special train. It is planned to have the fruit train leave Ulster Park at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and Roseton at 7 o'clock in the evening, the shipments arriving at the Desbrosses street (New York) dock at not later than 11 p. m. This would be a great convenience to the growers.

Herbert R. Odell and W. A. Van Steenburgh of the Central-Hudson Steamboat Company were also present at the fruit growers' meeting to discuss better service and cheaper rates requested by growers. The latter maintain that the transportation charges by boat are excessive as compared with the price of fruit, and the condition of markets generally. The charge by boat from middle Hudson points to New York city is 17 cents a crate. The rate by railroad is 10 1/2 cents a crate, with extras for handling which bring the total freight rate up to about 13 cents a crate. Shippers can save 4 cents a crate by shipping by railroad, and in the course of a season this would amount to many hundreds of dollars. With the special freight arranged by the West Shore, it would appear that the boat lines are to lose much of the fruit traffic unless they make concessions to the fruit growers. Mr. Odell agreed to take the request for cheaper rates and better service under consideration, and to do "the best he could."

The committee of fruit growers in charge of the matter consists of Leslie Herring, Ulster Park; J. A. Hepworth, Milton; A. P. Wicklow, Highland; F. W. Vail, Milton; W. R. Clark, Milton; W. V. Velle, Marlborough; C. C. Lockwood, Marlborough; Thomas Parr, Newburgh; E. W. Barnes, Middle Hope; LeGrand Haviland, Highland, and J. R. Cornell, Newburgh.

The outlook for the fruit crop in this section is exceedingly favorable for large harvests of all fruits except peaches, the growers declared. Two peach crops have been damaged nearly 50 per cent, which may mean that the high prices in some former years may prevail against this summer for peaches. Strawberries, raspberries, currants, grapes and other small fruit will be abundant, according to the present outlook.

100 NEW MEMBERS OF ST. JAMES'S CHURCH

It was a memorable day in St. James's Methodist Church Sunday. New members were admitted to the fellowship of the church at both the morning and evening services. The communion was one of the largest in many years, while the Sunday school attendance was such as made the officers glad of heart—one of the largest in a long time. As the result of the recent revival services, directly or indirectly, over a hundred persons have been added to the membership, while a new stimulus has been given to all the activities of the church. There will be other additions to the membership later on, these also being the fruit of the Tullar and Meridith evangelistic services. Such signs of real progress give heart of grace to the pastor and the officials.

Every Member Canva's a Success.

The every member canvass carried on Sunday afternoon by the men of the Rondout Presbyterian Church, was a success and a goodly sum was pledged as a result of the canvass. It was found impossible to reach every member of the congregation that afternoon and the work will be continued until each member is seen.

In the final bulletin and reports the rental paid for such property will be shown separately.

Cost of Materials.

The cost of materials used was $2,940,000 in 1914, as against $2,582,000 in 1909, an increase of $358,000, or 13.9 per cent. In addition to the component materials which enter into the products of the establishment for the census year there are included the cost of fuel, mill supplies and rent of power, heat. The cost of materials, however, does not include the cost of materials and supplies bought either for speculation or for use during a subsequent period.

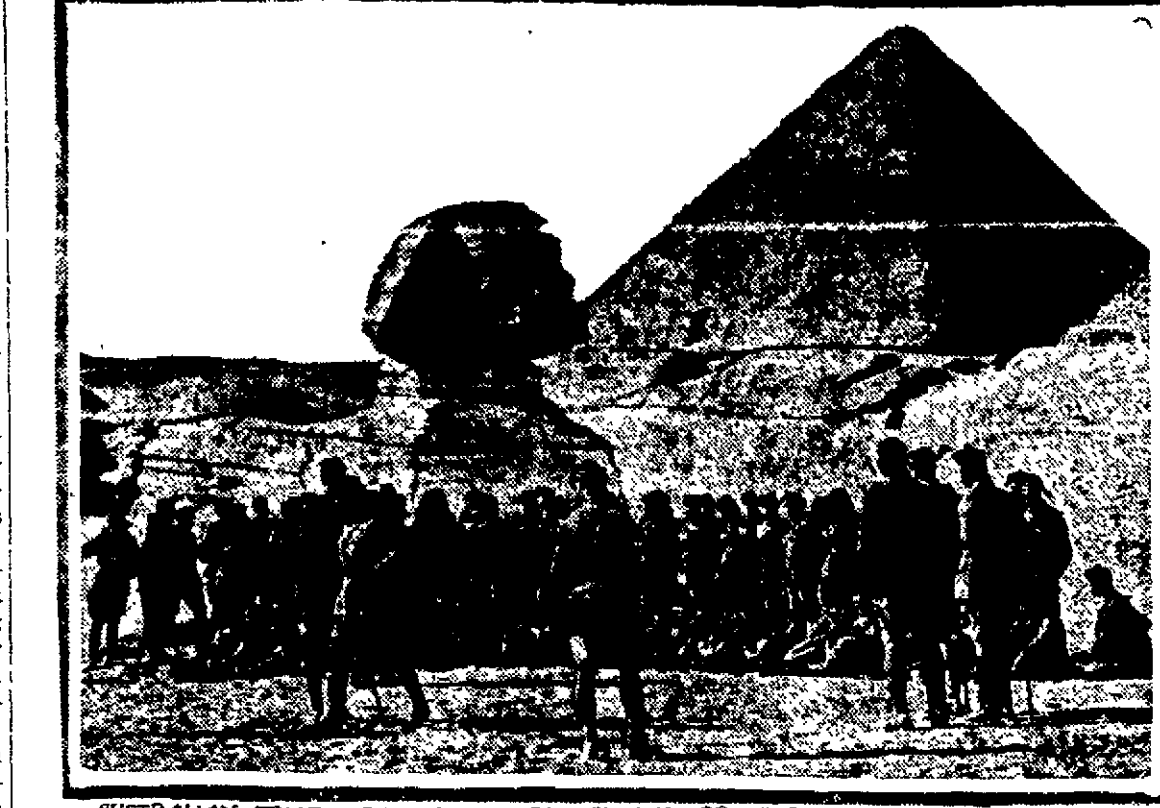

The census inquiry does not include amounts paid for miscellaneous expenses, such as rent of offices, royalties, insurance, ordinary repairs, advertising, traveling expenses or allowance for depreciation.

Value of Products.

The value of products was $6,445,000 in 1914 and $5,986,000 in 1909, the increase being $459,000, or 7.7 per cent. The value of products represents their selling value or price at the plants as actually turned out by the factories during the census year and does not necessarily have any relation to the amount of sales for that year. The values under this head also include amounts received for work done on materials furnished by others.

Value Added by Manufacture.

The value added by manufacture represents the difference between the cost of the materials used and the value of the products manufactured from them. The value added by manufacture was $2,505,000 in 1914 and $2,404,000 in 1909, the increase being $101,000, or 3 per cent. The value added by manufacture formed 41.4 per cent of the total of products in 1914 and 56.9 per cent in 1909.

Salaries and Wages.

The salaries and wages amounted to $1,821,000 in 1914 and to $1,777,000 in 1909, the increase being $44,000 or 2.5 per cent.

The number of salaried employees was 429 in 1914, as compared with 471 in 1909.

The average number of wage earners was 3,076 in 1914 and 3,281 in 1909.

Summary for the City.

A comparative summary for the city for 1909 and 1914 follows:

ARMY PREPARING TO PURSUE VILLA

By Telegram to The Freeman.

El Paso, Tex., March 13.—Preparations for the expedition into Mexico went forward here today with systematic swiftness. Train dispatchers worked through the night and all of today on the details for the movement of troops and supply trains from Fort Bliss and other points along the international border. The dispatchers worked under implicit instructions from the military authorities not to reveal the destination of any train.

A report that trains carrying soldiers from Fort Sam Houston passed through El Paso early today was not confirmed at headquarters here.

Twelve supply cars were shunted onto the Fort Bliss siding today and were made ready to follow the first troop train that starts from here into Mexico. All the Fort Bliss road ambulances and supply wagons were kept in waiting for the order to move.

Company K of the 8th U. S. Cavalry underwent final inspection of mounts and equipment.

The fate of the five hundred residents of the Mormon colony in Casas Grandes was causing grave concern here today. There was no direct communication with the region where the Mormons are reported to be in danger.

Bishop Hursch of the Mormon Church, in El Paso, received word in a roundabout way that the colonists were preparing to leave the danger zone and march aloft across the desert toward the border.

A telegram received by the International News Service from Marion Letcher, American consul at Chihuahua City today, requested that denial be made of the reports that were recent anti-American demonstrations in that city.

"Both the authorities and the people generally are showing admirable poise and self control in the present circumstances."

News from other sources in Chihuahua City stated the Americans in that section were en route to the border.

Prohibition at Plattkill.

A prohibition rally will be held by members of the Plattkill W. C. T. U. at the Friends' Church in Plattkill, March 19 at 8 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to all interested in the cause. A silver offering will be taken.

MEXICAN SITUATION AS IT IS TODAY

Officials admit that danger of complications with Carranza has delayed movements of the punitive expedition to capture Villa.

White House says president will agree to Carranza's request for reciprocal arrangement for punitive expeditions along border.

Secretary of State Lansing and Secretary of War Baker confer with president, reporting on general situation.

Border patrol is being strengthened so that forces are in readiness for any emergency that may arise.

War department continues its mask of censorship over all movements in order to prevent Villa knowing what to expect.

Army officers are gravely apprehensive that another expedition against Carranza may be attempted at some remote border point.

The president, after talking with congressional leaders, decided not to ask any co-operation from congress at this time.

Senators Stone and Salsbury and Attorney General Gregory, in conferences with the president, expressed the view that emergency agreement could be entered into with Carranza without authority from senate.

LIFE OF MOSES IN MOVIES.

Record Attendance Greeted Pictures at Y. M. C. A. Sunday Afternoon.

Nearly 1,000 persons crowded the Y. M. C. A. auditorium Sunday afternoon to see the moving pictures from the "Life of Moses," first in the series of Sunday afternoon biblical subjects to be presented. A most interesting pictorial representation of the main events in the career of the great prophet of Israel was given from the finding of the infant Moses in the bulrushes, through the plagues visited upon Egypt and the adventures of the people of Israel in seeking the promised land. The management was much pleased at the expressions of appreciation shown by the large number of spectators. Many were turned away because of the lack of seating space.

Albany Ave. Baptist Church Notes.

An orange social will be held on Tuesday evening, March 14, being given by Mrs. Hull's circle of the Ladies' Aid Society. A play will be presented by members of this circle and other entertainment provided. Dainty refreshments will be served. A delightful time is promised for all who come.

Mrs. Kline's circle of the Ladies' Aid Society will give a variety supper on the evening of St. Patrick's day, Friday, March 17, from five to eight o'clock.

A Church Supper.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Fair street Reformed church will serve a supper on Tuesday, March 14, from 5 until 8 o'clock. The following menu will be served:

Boiled Ham Creamed Potatoes Cabbage Salad Jelly Cake Tea Coffee

No chowder will be for sale previous to the supper.

Pictures at St. Mary's Hall.

On Monday nights during lent at St. Mary's Hall moving pictures of educational value will be shown under the auspices of the Blessed Virgin Sodality. Tonight will be a dramatization of Dickens's "Old Curiosity Shop." The admission will be free to members of the sodality but a small admission fee will be charged others.

Rehearsals at Y. M. C. A.

WILSON ACCEPTS CARRANZA PROPOSAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, March 13.—President Wilson has decided to accept Carranza's proposal. A note will go forward to the head of the Mexican de facto government at once, assuring him that Mexican troops will be allowed to enter the United States in pursuit of bandits at any time should such an emergency arise. Official announcement of the president's decision was made at the White House this morning.

Secretary of State Lansing will hold a conference with President Wilson at 2 o'clock this afternoon. He is expected to lay before the president then the draft of a note to Carranza. If the president approves it, the note will be dispatched to Carranza at once.

Officials breathed a sigh of relief when the president's decision became known. They believe that danger of Carranza's troops opposing the entrance of United States forces into Mexico is now removed.

The president is understood to have taken into consideration the fact that Carranza is placed in a delicate position because of the feeling of his people. The White House, it is known, does not believe that conditions will ever shape themselves so that Mexican troops would have to enter this country. It was stated officially that the reply to Carranza, while granting permission to Mexican troops to cross into the United States in pursuit of bandits, will be so worded that such an expedition would be possible only under the most exceptional circumstances.

Officials declare that the border from now on will be so closely guarded that it will be practically impossible for Villistas to cross over. Should any attempt be made to do so, it is declared, they will be captured by the United States forces and the Carranzistas will be afforded no excuse for following them.

It was made plain at the White House today that the president will not go before congress at this time. He is known to believe that such action might be misconstrued in Mexico and lead to serious consequences.

DOES NOT EXPECT A CALL

Militia Not Likely to be Called Out For Service in Mexico.

Despite the fact that President Wilson has ordered the invasion of Mexico, it is not thought in military circles here that the National Guard of this city will be called out to do fort duty or go in camp. No word of any kind has been received here for Company M to stand in readiness for duty although Governor Whitman has been requested by Washington to state the condition of the militia for service. It is believed that New York State guardsmen would be among the first called out if the services of the National Guard are sought.

Sonora Concert Tonight.

By special arrangement the Moose Lodge has persuaded Gregory & Company to have their samples of Sonora Photograph at the banquet at Kennedy's Hall. This is the machine that won the highest honors of tone quality at the world's fair. The Sonora is always selected in preference when heard in comparison and the Moose always have the best they can get. The banquet will be a largely attended meeting as they have been working hard for a long time for it.

The Pavement Puncturers.

Workmen are busy on Broadway near Downs street tearing up the brick pavement in order to locate a break in the gas main. This is the first in some time that the pavement has been torn up but with the opening of spring the open season on brick pavements will again be declared.

Schermerhorn Case Adjourned.

This morning another adjournment of a week was taken in the case of Frank Schermerhorn, the young boy who shot Able Baconarrah. While Able's condition is improving, he is yet unable to appear in court.

WEST SHORE FAST TRAIN FOR FRUIT

Ulster and Orange County Growers Pledge Themselves to Patronize New Service—Railroad Rates Lower Than Steamboat Lines to New York Markets.

Joint committees of the Hudson River Fruit Exchange, Inc., and prominent independent fruit growers of Ulster and Orange counties, met Friday in Milton to arrange for a special "fast" freight over the West Shore tracks during the fruit season to accommodate the fruit growers. A sub-committee which conferred with officials of the New York Central Railroad on Tuesday reported favorably on the special freight, and the signatures of many large growers were taken, pledging themselves to patronize this special train. It is planned to have the fruit train leave Ulster Park at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and Roseton at 7 o'clock in the evening, the shipments arriving at the Desbrosses street (New York) dock not later than 11 p. m. This would be a great convenience to the growers.

Herbert R. Odell and W. A. Van Steenburgh of the Central Hudson Steamboat Company were also present at the fruit growers' meeting to discuss better service and cheaper rates requested by growers. The latter maintain that the transportation charges by boat are excessive as compared with the price of fruit and the condition of markets generally.

The charge by boat from middle Hudson points to New York City is 17 cents a crate. The rate by railroad is 10 1/2 cents a crate, with extras for handling which bring the total freight rate up to about 13 cents a crate. Shippers can save 4 cents a crate by shipping by railroad, and in the course of a season this would amount to many hundreds of dollars. With the special freight arranged by the West Shore, it would appear that the boat lines are to lose much of the fruit traffic unless they make concessions to the fruit growers. Mr. Odell agreed to take the request for cheaper rates and better service under consideration, and to do "the best he could."

The committee of fruit growers in charge of the matter consists of Leslie Herring, Ulster Park; J. A. Hepworth, Milton; A. P. Wicklow, Highland; F. W. Vail, Milton; W. R. Clark, Milton; W. Y. Velie, Marlborough; C. G. Lockwood, Marlborough; Thomas Parr, Newburgh; E. W. Barnes, Middle Hope; LeGrand Harland, Highland, and J. R. Cornell, Newburgh.

The outlook for the fruit crop in this section is exceedingly favorable for large harvests of all fruits except peaches, the growers declared. The peach crop has been damaged nearly 50 per cent, which may mean that the high prices in some former years may prevail against this summer for peaches. Strawberries, raspberries, currants, grapes and other small fruit will be abundant, according to the present outlook.

100 NEW MEMBERS OF ST. JAMES'S CHURCH

It was a memorable day in St. James's Methodist Church Sunday. New members were admitted to the fellowship of the church at both the morning and evening services. The communion was one of the largest in many years, while the Sunday school attendance was such as made the officers glad of heart—one of the largest in a long time. As the result of the recent revival services, directly or indirectly, over a hundred persons have been added to the membership, while a new stimulus has been given to all the activities of the church. There will be other additions to the membership later on, these also being the fruit of the Tullar and Meridith evangelistic services. Such signs of real progress give heart of grace to the pastor and the officials.

Every Member Canva's a Success.

The every member canvass carried on Sunday afternoon by the men of the Rodont Presbyterian Church, was a success and a goodly sum was pledged as a result of the canvass. It was found impossible to reach every member of the congregation that afternoon and the work will be continued until each member is seen.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

The will of Charles V. L. Pitts of this city has been admitted to probate in the surrogate's court. To his wife, Isabella Pitts, the testator gives all his interest in the co-partnership known as C. V. L. Pitts & Son, and he expresses the wish that she will assume said interest and position in the co-partnership and with the assistance of their two sons, Harry F. Pitts and Frank T. Pitts, continue to conduct the business in the manner which to them is most conducive to their interests. The balance of the estate is also given to Mrs. Pitts, who is appointed executrix. The will was executed January 14, 1916, and witnessed by Alfred D. Van Buren and Miss Pauline Maxon. The personal property amounts to $5,000 and there is no real estate. Van Buren & Loughran appeared for the executrix.

A hearing was had in the matter of the judicial settlement of the account of John A. Tice, as administrator of the estate of Henry R. Kidney, of the town of Wawarsing, and a decree passing and approving the account was granted. Raymond G. Cox appeared for the administrator.

Spencer's School Notes.

Since last reported the following students and graduates have accepted good positions in Kingston and elsewhere:

Miss Carrie Robins of the stenographic department has accepted a permanent position as stenographer and typist with S. M. Van Ness, 304 Fair street.

Frank W. Smith of the commercial department has obtained a first-class position as bookkeeper with the Wallkill Hat Manufacturing Company, of Wallkill, N. Y.

Charles Scott, a former graduate, has secured a good business position with the U. & D. R. Co., Oneonta, N. Y.

Donald Rothrock, one of Spencer's most rapid touch-operators, has secured a position as stenographer with a large commercial house in Denver, Colo.

Thomas Gadd, of the combined course, has been placed as stenographer with the Mohican Company, Wall street, this city.

Several other students have been placed in good positions during the past ten days. Their names will appear in the press within a short time.

Justin Carey, a former graduate, was a pleasant caller at the school a few days since. Mr. Carey is accountant and manager of the Clover Farms, Inc., and secretary of the Greenfield Dairy Company of New Jersey, with offices at 534 West 48th street, New York city.

Mr. Carey informs us that seventy-four young ladies are employed in these offices. We are pleased to note the success of Spencer's graduates. Hundreds of other Kingston young men are meeting with like success in different parts of the country. Spencer's is so widely and favorably known that its competent graduates are sought after by the best very commercial establishments. This proves conclusively that its training is sound and sure.

THE VLY.

The Vly, March 13.—In the last Friday's Freeman there was an untruth about our school mistress which would like to have corrected. There was not any six boys at the school house as was stated. Our school teacher has a good reputation and it shall not be run down by anyone. The correspondent did not write it but someone in upper Kysierke, who is well known here, did the deed, and after this if he can not do any better than put in untruths then it is hopeful he will not write at all, as it then laid on the plate of our regular correspondent.

We are going to have a "measuring party" in the Vly hall, held by the Busy Bees, Thursday evening, March 16. If stormy, the next fair evening. Ice cream will be on sale and all kinds of refreshments. Come boys, you remember the good time you had at the Vly the last time? Well, there's no place like it, is there?

B. meeting was held at the hall last Tuesday evening. Mrs. Irving Jansen leading the meeting, while Miss Meta Bush presided at the organ. One new member enlisted, Miss Emma M. Palen.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Burger and two children were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Krom Saturday evening.

Hazlie J. Trowbridge has just returned from Ossining, where he has been spending a few days with friends.

Sunday school Sunday at 10 a. m. All are invited to attend. Bring your friends.

THEY REFUSE TO EAT

At periods in most children's lives they fail to relish their meals and refuse to eat even the delicacies prepared to tempt their appetites. They lack ambition, and growth seems impeded, which causes anxiety and worry.

To compel them to eat is a grave mistake, because nutrition is impaired. Healthful exercise in fresh air and sunshine is important, but equally important is a spoonful of Scott's Emulsion three times a day to feed the tissues and furnish food-energy to improve their blood, aid nutrition and sharpen their appetites.

The highly concentrated medicinal food in Scott's Emulsion supplies the very elements children need to build up their strength. They relish Scott's—it is free from alcohol.

FOR THE FAMILY TABLE.

Desserts that are simple to make, economical and wholesome are always in demand.

Brown Sugar Pudding.—Mix four table-spoonfuls of cornstarch with two cupfuls of brown sugar and when well mixed add two cupfuls of boiling water and a pinch of salt. Boil until the cornstarch is well cooked and simmer in a double boiler. Just before taking from the fire add a half cupful of walnut meats, broken in pieces. Serve cold with whipped cream.

Potato Chowder.—Cut a slice of salt pork in dice and fry brown in a soup kettle. Then add three medium sized potatoes and one onion, put through the meat chopper. Add salt and pepper and dredge with flour, cover with boiling water and simmer until tender. Add a pint and a half of hot milk, a small piece of butter and serve with toasted crackers.

Parisian Salmon.—Take a thick slice of salmon, tie it in a cloth and simmer gently in soup stock to which has been added a bay leaf, two chopped onions, a stalk of celery, one diced carrot, and some parsley. Place the fish when cooked on a platter and pour over it the following sauce: Place in a double boiler a cupful of milk, adding half a teaspoonful of beef extract, salt, celery salt and a table-spoonful of cornstarch, mixed with a little cold water. Cook well to cook the starch, then stir in a cupful of asparagus tips. Serve a border of mashed potato and small green peas around the fish with the sauce poured over the fish.

Oatmeal Soup.—Slice a large onion into one teaspoonful of melted butter and let simmer. Add one cupful of cooked oatmeal and cook until the onions are tender. Add a scant pint of milk and salt and pepper to taste. Strain, bring to a boil and serve hot with toasted crackers.

When making celery soup, stew the leaves rather than the heavy coarse stalks, as there is more flavor in them. Any left-over meats are made appetizing by reheating in any well seasoned sauce.

Mrs. George Vincent of Catskill spent Sunday as the guest of the Rev. Theodore Cole and wife on Barclay Heights.

The many friends of County Treasurer John A. Snyder, in the town of Saugerties would be pleased to see him renominated for that office.

E. O. Fowler and Sons, brick manufacturers on the South Side, are laying a track from their yard to the wharf, making it more convenient for the shipment of their product.

LEADER BANQUET

Thomas J. Comerford Guest at Dinner Given by Employees.

On Saturday evening the members of the Leader staff tendered a banquet to Thomas J. Comerford, president and managing editor of the Leader Company, at the Kingston Hotel.

The dinner was served in the large dining room which had been handsomely decorated for the occasion. The banquet was served by Miss Powers in his finest manner.

In a manner which has given the Kingston Hotel an enviable reputation, the tables were set in a T-shaped room and decorated with not only flowers and cut flowers, but also with a variety of hors d'oeuvres.

The dinner was presided over by David Burgeon, treasurer of the company. William G. Comerford, who acted as toastmaster, had upon the heads of the different departments who responded briefly.

Mr. Comerford to whom the banquet was given, spoke in the highest terms of the good work being done by his staff and the co-operation he was receiving in his work, and at the conclusion thanked all for the dinner which had been given in his honor.

The following menu was served in faultless style:

Van Steenburgh Cocktail
Newkirk on Half Shell

Haines, Thomas Hyland, Kearn Kenny, Clinton Lawson, William G. Merritt, William B. Martin, John Merrill, George W. Newkirk, Harold S. Rosecrans, George Roche, William Sansbury, Walter Van Steenburgh and George Zelle.

Meeting at School No. 5.

The Parent-Teachers' Association of School No. 5 will hold a regular meeting Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. There will be a discussion on how we can teach our boys and girls to be good citizens led by Principal Meagher. Parents and friends of the children are earnestly requested to be present.

Chinese Servants.

The servants in a Chinese family are not expensive, so far as wages are concerned, but they cost a great deal in perquisites. They rarely receive more than two dollars a month, but they are given their food, and they help themselves lavishly to anything they may desire. They dress themselves from the old clothing of the family, freely take the hairpins and the toilet articles of the mistress, clothe their children from the common wardrobe, and, in fact, are a part of the family.

Ceylon a Crown Colony.

Ceylon is often referred to as a part of British India, but it is a crown colony by itself, with an entirely separate administration and system of customs duties, posts, telegraphs, etc. It is essentially an agricultural country, and its manufactures are chiefly related to the product of agriculture.

COL. H. J. SLOCUM

COL. SLOCUM COMES OF FIGHTING FAMILY.

New York, March 13.—Col. H. J. Slocum, commander of the American forces at Columbus, N. M., where the bandits under Villa raided the town and killed sixteen Americans, is about fifty years old and the son of Col. J. J. Slocum, of this city.

He is a nephew of Mrs. Russell Sage and brother of Major Stephen L'Honnmedieu Slocum, U. S. A., who was military attaché from the United States at the Court of St. James in 1911.

Colonel Slocum, their father, is a veteran of the Civil War, and one of the trustees of the Russell Sage estate.

Colonel Herbert Jermaln Slocum married Miss Brandreth, one of the most beautiful women in Ossining, N. Y. She lost her life in an automobile accident in Washington in March, 1910, the machine in which she was riding with General J. Franklin Bell being struck by a trolley car.

In November, 1911, announcement was made of the engagement of Colonel Slocum and Mrs. Pascual Carr, of Pittsburgh.

Colonel Slocum has been stationed on several occasions at Governors Island. He was attached to General Merritt's staff there in the latter nineties. His last assignment there was about five years ago, in the post of Inspector-General. From there he went to Cuba, where he had for some time the rural guards for the Cuban Government.

Upon his return home he spent a short time at Fort Leavenworth, and then joined his regiment on the Mexican border.

According to the reports at Governors Island, Colonel Slocum has seven troops of his regiment at Columbus, N. M., troops E. F. G. H. of the second squadron and troops K. L. and M. of the third squadron. Troop I is at Fort Riley.

A Bit of Sicily.

"There is no Italian town more picturesque than the Sicilian capital, Palermo," writes a traveler. "Sailing ships of all rigs, their hulls painted all the colors of the rainbow, nose up against the quay, where mule carts, whose drivers are shouting at the top of their voices, wait to take away the merchandise. The narrow streets where the custom house officers examine the goods brought ashore is a place of terrific noise. When a driver, two clerks and two custom house officers are discussing the contents of a bale or a cask it seems as though murder must be committed within the next few seconds. But somebody signs something, the cart moves on, and everybody laughs."

Murdering Shakespeare.

"I never hesitate to cut and slash and change any play until it suits me," said Stuart Robson to his legal adviser on one occasion. "I suppose you edit Shakespeare with a blue pencil?" replied the lawyer. "You can just bet I do." "Then, I imagine, you would plead guilty to an indictment for murdering the Bard of Avon?" "No! I would not, but I would admit dissecting his corpse."

How Silver Bow Got Its Name.

Silver Bow creek received its name from a party of prospectors who reached its valley in the vicinity of Butte in 1894, says a bulletin of the federal geological survey. While discussing the best name for the stream the clouds broke away, and the sunshine, falling on the creek as it circled around the mountain, suggested the name Silver Bow, and it was accordingly so called.

A Smooth Approach.

"You seem hard worked, sir," said the affable stranger. "I'm half dead." "Then I called in the nick of time. I'm selling life insurance. If you're half dead you can't get a policy any too quick."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Drawback.

Ma—"You can't tell what she can see in him? My dear girl, the man has $5,000 a year! Mamie—What a pity! Ma—A pity! Surely money is no drawback to a man. Mamie—No; but the man's such a drawback to money!—Sydney Bulletin.

When Hats Were Hats

Hats were hats, shoes were shoes, and clothes were clothes—forty years ago.

Requirements today are much more complex, our needs are multiplied. So that it is not enough to make up our minds to buy a new hat or a new pair of shoes, or a new suit of clothes. Style, quality, service, and many other essentials occupy our minds now, when we feel the need of purchasing anything.

Newspaper advertising has opened our eyes to the need and to the distinct advantage of being informed. And retailers in their constant striving to please and to create new business are daily telling of the merits of their wares in the columns of dependable newspapers like The Freeman. Keep up with the times. Don't neglect your newspaper.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

The will of Charles V. L. Pitts of this city has been admitted to probate in the surrogate's court. To his wife, Isabella Pitts, the testator gives all his interest in the co-partnership known as C. V. L. Pitts & Son, and he expresses the wish that she will assume said interest and position in the co-partnership and with the assistance of their two sons, Harry F. Pitts and Frank T. Pitts, continue to conduct the business in the manner which to them is most conducive to their interests. The balance of the estate is also given to Mrs. Pitts, who is appointed executrix. The will was executed January 14, 1916, and witnessed by Alfred D. Van Buren and Miss Pauline Maxon. The personal property amounts to $3,000 and there is no real estate. Van Buren & Loughran appeared for the executrix.

A hearing was had in the matter of the judicial settlement of the account of John A. Tice, as administrator of the estate of Henry R. Kidney, of the town of Wawarsing, and a decree passing and approving the account was granted. Raymond G. Cox appeared for the administrator.

Spencer's School Notes.

Since last reported the following students and graduates have accepted good positions in Kingston and elsewhere:

Miss Carrie Robins of the stenographic department has accepted a permanent position as stenographer and typist with S. M. Van Ness, 304 Fair street.

Frank W. Smith of the commercial department has obtained a first-class position as bookkeeper with the Wallkill Hat Manufacturing Company, of Wallkill, N. Y.

Charles Scott, a former graduate, has secured a good business position with the U. & D. R. Co., Oneonta, N. Y.

Donald Rothrock, one of Spencer's most rapid touch-operators, has secured a position as stenographer with a large commercial house in Denver, Colo.

Thomas Gadd, of the combined course, has been placed as stenographer with the Mohican Company, Wall street, this city.

Several other students have been placed in good positions during the past ten days. Their names will appear in the press within a short time.

Justin Carey, a former graduate, was a pleasant caller at the school a few days since. Mr. Carey is accountant and manager of the Clover Farms, Inc., and secretary of the Greenfield Dairy Company of New Jersey, with offices at 534 West 48th street, New York city. Mr. Carey informs us that seventy-four young ladies are employed in these offices. We are pleased to note the success of Spencer's graduates. Hundreds of other Kingston young men are meeting with like success in different parts of the country. Spencer's is so widely and favorably known that its competent graduates are sought after by the best very commercial establishments. This proves conclusively that its training is sound and sure.

THE VLY.

The Vly. March 13.—In the last Friday's Freeman there was an untruth about our school mistress which would like to have corrected. There was not any six boys at the school house as was stated. Our school teacher has a good reputation and it shall not be run down by anyone. The correspondent did not write it but someone in upper Kresenke, who is well known here, did the deed, and after this it can not do any better than put in untruths then it is hopeful he will not write at all, as it then laid on the plate of our regular correspondent.

We are going to have a "measuring party" in the Vly hall, held by the Busy Bees, Thursday evening, March 16. If stormy, the next fair evening. Ice cream will be on sale and all kinds of refreshments. Come boys, you remember the good time you had at the Vly the last time? Well, there's no place like it, is there?

B. B. meeting was held at the hall last Tuesday evening. Mrs. Irving Jansen leading the meeting, while Miss Meta Lush presided at the organ. One new member enlisted, Miss Emma M. Felen.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Burger and two children were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Krom Saturday evening.

Hazlie J. Trowbridge has just returned from Ossining, where he has been spending a few days with friends.

Sunday school Sunday at 10 a. m. All are invited to attend. Bring your friends.

THEY REFUSE TO EAT

At periods in most children's lives they fail to relish their meals and refuse to eat even the delicacies prepared to tempt their appetites. They lack ambition, and growth seems impeded, which causes anxiety and worry.

To compel them to eat is a grave mistake, because nutrition is impaired. Healthful exercise in fresh air and sunshine is important, but equally important is a spoonful of Scott's Emulsion three times a day to feed the tissues and furnish food-energy to improve their blood, aid nutrition and sharpen their appetites.

The highly concentrated medicinal food in Scott's Emulsion supplies the very elements children need to build up their strength. They relish Scott's—it's free from alcohol.

Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. 15-34

THE KITCHEN CABINET

The world is so full of a number of things, I am sure we should all be as happy as kings. —Stevenson.

FOR THE FAMILY TABLE.

Desserts that are simple to make, economical and wholesome are always in demand.

Brown Sugar Pudding.—Mix four tablespoonsful of cornstarch with two cupfuls of brown sugar and when well mixed add two cupfuls of boiling water and a pinch of salt. Boil until the cornstarch is well cooked and simmer in a double boiler. Just before taking from the fire add a half cupful of walnut meats, broken in pieces. Serve cold with whipped cream.

Potato Chowder.—Cut a slice of salt pork in dice and fry brown in a soup kettle. Then add three medium sized potatoes and one onion, put through the meat chopper. Add salt and pepper and dredge with flour, cover with boiling water and simmer until tender. Add a pint and a half of hot milk, a small piece of butter and serve with toasted crackers.

Parisian Salmon.—Take a thick slice of salmon, tie it in a cloth and simmer gently in soup stock to which has been added a bay leaf, two chopped onions, a stalk of celery, one diced carrot, and some parsley. Place the fish when cooked on a platter and pour over it the following sauce: Place in a double boiler a cupful of milk, adding half a teaspoonful of beef extract, salt, celery salt and a tablespoonful of cornstarch, mixed with a little cold water. Cook well to cook the starch, then stir in a cupful of asparagus tips. Serve a border of mashed potato and small green peas around the fish with the sauce poured over the fish.

Oatmeal Soup.—Slice a large onion into one teaspoonful of melted butter and let simmer. Add one cupful of cooked oatmeal and cook until the onions are tender. Add a scant pint of milk and salt and pepper to taste. Strain, bring to a boil and serve hot with toasted crackers.

When making celery soup, stew the leaves rather than the heavy coarse stalks, as there is more flavor in them. Any left-over meats are made appetizing by reheating in any well seasoned sauce.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MARCH 13, 1916.

The demand in Europe, the Panama canal blockade and idle wells in Mexico are three factors which may bring forty cent gasoline this summer in the opinion of Percy Rockefeller, who holds out little consolation to consumers counting on lower prices for the product. An export tax cannot help out because of the Federal constitution, Section 9, Article 1, which says: "No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any state." This would seem to bar taxes on munitions as well as other supplies exported to the war zone. Even with the European demand, legitimate curiosity is excited as to the failure of the widely-heralded processes recently presented to the government by which gasoline production was to be materially cheapened. With forty cent gas in prospect the only logical field of inquiry for automobilists is that of possible substitutes for gasoline and the utilization of kerosene or some cheaper oil for internal combustion engines.

A possible remedy is found in the press bulletins of the United States Geological Survey which cite the almost inexhaustible supply of oil shale in Colorado and Utah. Refined by ordinary methods, we are told, the oil derived from this rock yields an average of ten per cent gasoline, 35 per cent kerosene and a large amount of paraffin. The shale runs as high as ten gallons of gasoline to the ton, representing more money at present prices than the production of gold from some low-grade ore fields. With kerosene and ammonia as by-products of the process, this oil-bearing shale most assuredly deserves further attention. The government bulletin states that the quantity of petroleum hitherto supplied from wells has met all demands, hence, a neglect of this potential source of relief. For more than a half century, we are informed, the oil shale industry in Scotland, where the yield per ton is much less than that possible in the Colorado fields, has been an important one in which more than 8,000 men were employed. Mining gasoline sounds like a last resort against soaring prices but the government experts put the prospect in a most feasible light.

Senator Lawson has introduced a bill in the legislature which would let down any statutory bars now raised against card-playing for prizes where such games are under the auspices of charitable, fraternal, hospital, religious or church organizations or societies. If the penal law, which this measure seeks to amend, has ever explicitly forbidden such enterprises the provision has been honored more in the breach than in the observance. Card-playing for prizes is pretty general in private homes as well as under sanction of organizations such as the Senator would except. Why any special protection is needed for churches, charities or fraternal societies is hardly clear. If there are any bars to be let down, they should be let down for private citizens as well as private clubs. Whether this is done or not by the legislature, card-playing for prizes will continue without let or hindrance and we confess our inability to become excited in any degree over the prospect.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, whose highminded determination to secure only trusted help in his department, is credited with the preference of a numerous body of relatives and near friends, has been further obliged to turn his back upon the practical phases of politics within his own party. Evidence of this attitude is furnished in telegrams exchanged between the cabinet officer and State Senator James I. Green of Massachusetts. The latter appears to have been running true to name when he wired a demand for a position or a salary increase for his brother at the hands of Secretary McAdoo stating that upon the latter's action would depend Green's conduct as a delegate to the national convention. Very properly the Secretary informed Senator Green of his lightning point and styled the telegram as a practical attempt at bribery. At the same time Mr. McAdoo did not neglect to give the text of both telegrams to the press. Thus the country can perceive that virtue is still triumphant at Washington. A few more exhibitions of political idealism so foreign to Democratic party tradition, and there will be wholesale defections of the more practically inclined Democrats who do not hold to the lofty viewpoint of the President and son-in-law McAdoo as exhibited in this controversy.

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, March 13.—About 50 young people of Eddyville enjoyed a sleigh ride to this place Friday evening and gave the Rev. and Mrs. Eugene A. Bookhout a complete surprise. A very pleasant evening was spent and bountiful refreshments were served. They departed at a late hour all voting the Rev. and Mrs. Bookhout royal entertainers.

An Epworth League dime social will be held Tuesday evening, March 14, at the Methodist parsonage. This social is public and all friends of the league are urged to be present and help along a most worthy cause. An entertainment has been prepared and a pleasant and profitable evening is assured. Games will be played and will be in charge of a committee who have tact in that part of the program. Bountiful refreshments will be served and home made ice cream, vanilla and pineapple flavors, will be on sale, and that announcement alone ought to attract the most fastidious. Let every one get aside Tuesday evening as the joyful occasion and present themselves at the parsonage, as we courteously solicit your generous patronage.

Port Ewen Lodge, No. 656, I. O. O. F., will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock in their rooms in Pythian Hall.

The teachers' Bible training class will meet at 7:30 o'clock this evening at the Methodist parsonage. The Rev. Eugene A. Bookhout will be in charge.

Captain and Mrs. Lewis Suffer of Bayard street are spending a few days in New York city.

William E. Ronk of Brooklyn and Arthur Post of Newburgh attended the funeral services of Henry Britt Saturday afternoon.

The funeral services of Henry Britt were held Saturday afternoon from the residence of his father, Virgil Britt, on Salem street, and from the Reformed Church, of which the deceased was a member. The Rev. C. H. Polhemus officiated. Interment in Port Ewen cemetery.

Raymond Howe of Rhinebeck spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Howe, on Main street. Miss Pearl Terpening, who is spending some time in Brooklyn, was the week end guest at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Terpening, on Salem street.

The Rev. Eugene A. Bookhout, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, delivered a very powerful sermon Sunday morning, the theme being "The Bread of Life." Isa. 55th chapter and verses 2 and 3. At the close of the sermon Miss Ella Lapine sang very sweetly and without the least emotion, "Cast Thy Bread Upon the Waters." A very fitting closing for a sermon of such depth.

Some careless informer sent an item to the reporter of The Freeman in regard to the leap year party which was held in St. Leo's Hall on Tuesday evening, February 29. Several of those present were omitted and the names of three persons who did not attend the party were mentioned. The following were present: The Misses Helen Cummings, Kathleen Whalen, Helen Elgo, Irene Hines, Sara Kent, Maudie Tucker, Bessie Grimes, Kathryn Grimes, Mary Henry, Helen Henry, Agnes McNeil, Mary McNelis, Margaret Flynn, Mary Flynn, Mary Gibbons, Ruby Henry, Margaret Duffy, Mary Tucker, Carolyn Munnely, Annie Tucker, Margaret Malla and the Messrs. William Fairbrother, Lawrence Tucker, Joseph Elgo, William Sapp, Charles Tucker, David Leach, Harry Corbett, Bernard McDonald, Frank Carroll, Austin Cannon, Maurice Flynn, Austin Tucker, Matthew Corbett, James Cannon, Frank Tucker, William Dittus, Peter Tucker, Peter Camp. At 10:30 o'clock a march for supper was played and all were served with a bountiful supper. The march was led by James Cannon and Miss Mary Gibbons. The evening was spent in dancing and singing, and excellent music was furnished for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. James Major of Newburgh attended the funeral services of Henry Britt Saturday afternoon and were the guests of Mrs. John Holliday on Bowen street.

PLATTEKILL.

Plattekill, March 13.—A St. Patrick social will be held in the Plattekill Methodist Church next Friday evening, March 17, 1916, under the auspices of the Methodist Sunday school. A fine program has been arranged, consisting of the following: Instrumental selections, duets, recitations and a one act farce, entitled "Miss Parkington." Cast of characters: Jack Carow, inclined to banefulness, Russell Carpenter; Adelaide Parangton, inclined to Jack, Miss Jennie Lowry; Annabel Parkington, her cousin, 35 and getting anxious, Miss Irene Birdsell; Josie, the maid, inquisitive and romantic, Miss Thillie Nabor. If stormy, the social will be held the following evening. All are cordially invited to attend.

A public auction will be held at Elias Pine's Tuesday, March 21. Mr. Pine and his daughter expect to move to Orange Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Brannan expect to move to their new house at Warden in the near future.

Farm Bureau Activities.
A meeting of the Wallkill cow testing association was called by the president, Fred Duflois, on Friday afternoon at Gardiner. Mr. Hook, manager of the Farm Bureau, was present and addressed the assembly. The members of the association are more than pleased with the new tester, W. J. Wilcox, who is giving the greatest satisfaction. Saturday the farm manager gave a demonstration of fruit tree pruning at Gardiner before a large crowd.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"Look here, you said you'd have my car ready last night." "Well, what are you coming around tonight for?"—Judge.

"Lack of education is a terrible handicap." "Yes; think of not being able to read the sub-titles on the movie screen."—Puck.

"The time, the place and the girl are seldom found together." "True. The girl is usually half an hour late."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"You applauded the music wildly." "Yes," replied Mr. Rufnek. "I got tired of sitting still and listening. I wanted to make a little noise on my own account."—Washington Star.

Departing Diner—"I'd like to give you a tip, waiter, but I find I have only my taxi fare left." Waiter—"They do say, sir, that an after-dinner walk is very good for the 'cath, sir.'"—Boston Transcript.

"I thought Crimmon Gulch had reformed." "It had," replied Broncho Bob. "But it seems wide open now." "We have some kind of demonstration. There's nothing we used to enjoy so much as havin' a good talker come along an' tell us how wicked we were. We've been so regular respectable that nobody pays the slightest attention to us, an' we feel terribly slighted."—Washington Star.

Carried Out.

The managing editor wheeled his chair around and pushed a lion in the wall. The person wanted entered.

"Here," said the editor, "are a number of directions from outsiders as to the best way to run a newspaper. See that they are all carried out." And the office boy, gathering them all into a large waste basket, did so.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Charity Begins at Home.

Harris Dickson, the dramatization of whose "Old Reliable" stories is to be produced this season, tells of an old negro mammy who was kept from starvation by the white women who gave her occasional odd jobs to do. Mrs. Dickson, the writer's mother, had found some housework for the old negroes, but after working for two or three days Mandy said she must quit, according to The Green Book Magazine.

"I done have to go out collectin' foh de missionary society," she explained.

"But I have work for you to do," said Mrs. Dickson, "and you need all the money you can get."

"I know," said the old mammy, "but I done haf to collect foh de missionary society."

"What do you get paid for collectin'?" asked Mrs. Dickson.

"I done don't get paid," said Mandy, "I only gets what I collects."

Seizing An Opportunity.

Harry Lauder was being entertained with a story.

"An Irishman and a Scotchman went into a saloon together," said the wit who was trying to interest the comedian, and the Irishman discovered that he had lost his money."

"I hope the Scotchman found it after the Irishman had gone out," he said in perfect seriousness.

He was reminded recently by a member of a golf association that the organization had given him (Lauder) a watch to replace one he had lost.

"Now that you bring the subject up," said Lauder, "I think I lost a cuff-button on the links today."—Green Book Magazine.

The Proof.

Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg's recent declaration in the Reichstag that Germany is a peaceful nation, fighting a defensive war against savage aggressors, led Captain W. Finch of the Arabic to say:

"Germany peaceful, eh? Her war a purely defensive one! Well, that reminds me of the chap who had his bumps examined by a phrenologist."

"From your bumps," the phrenologist said, "I should say you were a very quarrelsome person."

"Well, you're a liar, see? The chap answered, 'and if you say it again I'll smash your coco.'"—New York Times.

A. W. THOMPSON DEAD AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Former Mayor Aaron Wesley Thompson died after a prolonged illness on Sunday morning at 1:30 o'clock at his home, No. 35 West Chester street, in his 49th year. He had been confined to his home since the beginning of the year and death resulted from Bright's disease and heart failure.

For nearly thirty years Captain Thompson had been actively identified with the business interests of Kingston. For the past fourteen years he had been cashier of the

A. WESLEY THOMPSON.

Rondout National Bank, which under his cashiership became one of the most prosperous banks in the Hudson valley.

Graduating from Ulster Academy in 1886, Captain Thompson immediately entered the employ of the Rondout National Bank as clerk. He was promoted to teller February 1, 1895, and became cashier on January 14, 1902. The surplus and profits when he became cashier were $30,000, but under his able cashiership they increased to $103,000.

At an early age he became actively interested in military affairs, and enlisted in the Fourteenth Separate Company. He served as private, corporal, sergeant, first sergeant and captain, and was captain of the company when he received an honorable discharge on February 7, 1893, his other activities not permitting him to devote longer the time necessary for maintaining the high standard the company had achieved.

After the Fourteenth Separate Company responded to the call for volunteers at the beginning of the Spanish War and entered the United States service, Captain Thompson was designated by the military authorities at Albany to recruit the One Hundred and Fourteenth Separate Company and he was again commissioned as captain. He recruited the new company up to full strength; many members of the new company left Kingston afterwards to join the First Regiment to which the former Fourteenth Separate Company belonged, and the quota of other regiments was also filled from that company. Captain Thompson drilled the new company throughout the summer of 1898 and in the fall he again received honorable discharge.

For many years Captain Thompson was active in Republican politics. He was the first president of the Republican Club of Ulster county and headed that organization when it made its trip to Washington to take part in the inauguration of Theodore Roosevelt as president.

In 1904 he was nominated by the Republican city convention for member of the board of education and was elected by a majority of 430. The following year he was elected mayor of the city by a majority of 525. In the performance of his official duties as mayor he devoted much time and energy to his work. He held to the idea that public office is a public trust, and personally investigated all complaints made to him with the result that constant exposure, coupled with his ordinary work, resulted in a nervous breakdown and he was compelled to resign the office and leave town to recuperate. Walter P. Crane was appointed to succeed him as acting mayor. He never fully recovered from the effects of his breakdown and attributed the development of later ills to it.

His work as mayor was highly commended at the time and he has since been praised for what he accomplished. One of the first things he accomplished was the rewording of the city, with fewer potholes, and a resultant saving to the city of $1,700 a year in election expenses. He next took up the establishment of a paid fire department, which project he carried through to a successful conclusion. He compelled the Colonial railroad line to run its cars on ten minute schedule during the winter months instead of the twenty minute headway under which the line had been operating, and he also effected a contract with the trolley company by which it should pay its proportionate cost of the removal of snow from streets through which its lines extend. He was appointed a supervisor of the Ninth Ward on November 7, 1914, and was elected to that office last November.

Captain Thompson possessed a thorough knowledge of business and banking. He took much pleasure in reading and was well informed on problems of city government and well acquainted with what other municipalities are doing. His ideas of conducting public business with the same fidelity displayed in private enterprise were well known to everyone with whom he came in contact and his business and personal integrity were beyond reproach. He was a staunch supporter of all measures which he believed were for the betterment of the city and county and was an implacable foe to deception and deceit. He was always frank and outspoken and never attempted to conceal from anyone his personal position on any public matter. He was a director of the Rondout

VAN WAGENEN'S

Forty-Fifth

Anniversary

Celebration

This Is An Event of Supreme Importance
By—All Means the Best in Our History!

The spirit of "Preparedness" animates the Van Wageningen store from roof to basement. The cheer—the courage—the confidence that go with good plans well laid have joined in producing a livelier brand of store ENTHUSIASM and a stronger determination to render Ideal Service than our organization has ever before developed.

The most extravagant claims we could advance regarding the importance of this Anniversary event would be mild when compared with the Wonderful Stocks and Wonderful Savings that are offered in every section of the store.

We embrace the occasion to introduce complete lines of new spring merchandise—as well as to present a round-up of sterling values that will provide savings of most unusual proportions.

The economies offered in this 45th Anniversary Celebration are intended as a big "thank you" for your year-round patronage, and we have labored for months, hard and earnestly, to the end that this Leap-year event should prove a triumph over our best previous record.

WHERE QUALITY IS HIGHER THAN PRICE!

Real Living.

Life is what we are alive to. It is not length but breadth. To be alive is to have appetite, pleasure, pride, money-making, and not to goodness and kindness, purity and love, history, poetry, music, flowers, stars, God and eternal hopes, to be all but dead.—Walt Whitman.

Unreasonable Baby.

Four-year-old Ora was trying to quiet the little new sister crying in the cradle. After several unsuccessful attempts, which tended only to increase the cries, she shook her finger in the tiny face and said reproachfully, "Why, baby, don't you know your own folks?"

National Bank and a trustee of the Ulster County Savings Institution. For a number of years he was a director and treasurer of the Rondout Savings and Loan Association, but resigned because of ill health. Socially he was a member of Rondout Lodge, No. 343, Free and Accepted Masons, and he was also a member of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church.

He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Ella Longyear, a daughter of Nelson Longyear, and two sons, Wesley and Arthur L. Thompson, and his father, Hugh Thompson, who resided with the deceased. Funeral from the family residence Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment in Montrose Cemetery at the convenience of the family.

Daily Thought.

If men from their youth were wearied of that sauntering humor, wherein some, out of custom, let a good part of their life run listlessly away, they would find time enough to acquire skill and dexterity in hundreds of things.—Locke.

Why is yawn?

"Mamma, what is a yawn?" asked Vivien of her mamma, who was discussing this favorite of all face exercises. "Why, a yawn, baby—well—why, a yawn is a yawn," she explained. Silence for five minutes. "Mamma, asked Vivien, "can you yawn without gaping?"

SAUGERTIES.

Saugerties, March 13.—Mr. and Mrs. George Parkhurst of the Maxwell House spent Sunday in New York city.

Dr. O'Leary of Kingston was called in consultation with Dr. James Krom in regard to the case of George Gordon, who is critically ill at his home on Montgomery street.

A stated meeting of Emmanuel Chapter, No. 517, O. E. S. will be held Tuesday evening, March 24.

Henry Lawless, an employee of the Martin Cantine Co., while trucking cases of paper on Saturday afternoon, received injuries, requiring the services of Dr. Diedling.

Miss Henrietta Teitzloff of First street is in New York city for a few days.

Thomas Hartley of Malden is having a fine residence erected on Upper Main street.

R. A. Snyder Hose Co. are holding rehearsals for the George M. Cohan play, "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway," to be given at Maxwell Opera House in the near future.

Miss Mondorf and brother of Brooklyn are spending a few days at the Exchange Hotel.

Mrs. Charles Wilbur of Parition street spent the week end in New York city.

Joseph Mower of the South Side has gone to New York, where he has secured a position as engineer.

Captain George Post of the steamer Elster of the Saugerties and New York Steamboat Line went to Newburgh yesterday to get the boat ready for the opening of navigation.

Mrs. George Vincent of Catskill spent Sunday as the guest of the Rev. Theodore Cole and wife on Barclay Heights.

The many friends of Country Treasurer John A. Snyder, in the town of Saugerties would be pleased to see him renominated for that office.

E. O. Fowler and Sons, brick manufacturers on the South Side, are laying a track from their yard to the wharf, making it more convenient for the shipment of their product.

COL. H. J. SLOCUM
COL. SLOCUM COMES OF FIGHT-ING FAMILY.

New York, March 13.—Col. H. J. Slocum, commander of the American forces at Columbus, N. M., where the bandits under Villa raided the town and killed sixteen Americans, is about fifty years old and the son of Col. J. J. Slocum of this city.

He is a nephew of Mrs. Russell Sage and brother of Major Stephen L'Honniedieu Slocum, U. S. A., who was military attaché to the United States at the Court of St. James in 1911.

Colonel Slocum, their father, is a veteran of the Civil War, and one of the trustees of the Russell Sage estate.

Colonel Herbert Jermaln Slocum married Miss Brandreth, one of the most beautiful women in Ossining, N. Y. She lost her life in an automobile accident in Washington in March, 1910, the machine in which she was riding with General J. Franklin Bell being struck by a trolley car.

In November, 1911, announcement was made of the engagement of Colonel Slocum and Mrs. Pascual Carr of Pittsburgh.

Colonel Slocum has been stationed on several occasions at Governors Island. He was attached to General Merritt's staff here in the latter months. His last assignment there was about five years ago, in the post of Inspector-General. From there he went to Cuba where he had formerly commanded the rural guards for the Cuban Government.

Upon his return home he spent a short time at Fort Leavenworth, and then joined his regiment on the Mexican border.

According to the reports at Governors Island, Colonel Slocum has seven troops of his regiment at Columbus, N. M., troops E, F, G, H, I, L and M, of the third squadron, Troop I is at Fort Riley.

A Bit of Sicily.

"There is no Italian town more picturesque than the Sicilian capital, Palermo," writes a traveler. "Sailing ships of all rigs, their hulls painted all the colors of the rainbow, nose up against the quay, where mule carts, whose drivers are shouting at the top of their voices wait to take away the merchandise. The narrow streets where the custom house officers examine the goods brought ashore is a place of terrific noise. When a driver, two clerks and two custom house officers are discussing the contents of a bale or a cask it seems as though murder must be committed within the next few seconds. But somebody signs something, the cart moves on, and everybody laughs."

Murdering Shakespeare.

"I never hesitate to cut and slash and change any play until it suits me," said Stuart Robson to his legal adviser on one occasion.

"I suppose you edit Shakespeare with a blue pencil?" replied the lawyer.

"You can just bet I do."

"Then, I imagine, you would plead guilty to an indictment for murdering the Bard of Avon?"

"No, I would not, but I would admit dissecting his corpse."

How Silver Bow Got Its Name.

Silver Bow creek received its name from a party of prospectors who reached its valley in the vicinity of Butte in 1894, says a bulletin of the federal geological survey. While discussing the best name for the stream the clouds broke away, and the sunshine, falling on the creek as it circled around the mountain, suggested the name Silver Bow, and it was accordingly so called.

A Smooth Approach.

"You seem hard worked, sir," said the affable stranger.

"I'm half dead."

"Then I called in the nick of time. I'm selling life insurance. If you're half dead you can't get a policy any too quick."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

SPEED OF JOE LOOMIS

Covers Ground by Clearing Ten Feet at Each Stride.

Long Legs Make Him Hurdle Topper of National Repute—Only Athlete to Hold Three National Championships at One Time.

Easterners, when they first saw Joseph Gilbert Loomis in action, called him a "kangaroo runner" and laughed at his "form." Since then the Chicago star has shown that speed and not "form" wins championships. He defended his national title, won at Baltimore, in 1914, by defeating the best of the West and East since that time. Joe stands six feet four inches in his running shoes and his legs are proportionately long. Ten feet a step is his stride. That's the way he covers the ground. Hence in a 100-yard race he takes but 30 steps in flying over the cinders at a rate of 30 feet, or three steps, a second. Striding at this rate Joe could travel a mile, if he had the stamina, in 528 steps. The average mile runner takes about 1,760 steps, or three feet at a step. Joe's long legs also make him a hurdle topper of national repute. He is the only man who ever held three national championships so far as records show, for he captured the century, high jump and high hurdles in 1914. He is as thin as a sapling, thrives on training rules and actually puts on flesh while following the allurements of the cinder path. His admirers say he will be stepping the century in less than ten seconds after he has acquired all the tricks of starting and perfected this stride and that in time he will cover the 100 yards in faster time than the standing record of 9.25 seconds. Loomis shattered his own record of

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS
DEFEAT NEWBURGH

Saturday afternoon the Kingston high school girls received a gentle little team from Passaic Hall in Newburgh with open arms, and before their visit came to an end the local girls favored their guests with a basketball score of 40 points for Kingston and 12 for Newburgh.

The game was not a thrilling encounter, and aside from the displacement of a few ribbons and caps, it was a pleasant, quiet hour for both teams and on-lookers.

Miss Seigel and the girls coach from Newburgh officiated and after the game the home team served refreshments to the visiting team.

PEPPERY OPINION IN WERNER CASE

Judge Hasbrouck Decides Marriage of Wealthy Woman to Mounted Policeman Should be Annulled and Explains Why.

The celebrated suit brought by Giulia Morosini to have her marriage to Arthur M. Werner annulled has been decided by Judge Hasbrouck in favor of Miss Morosini, in an opinion which bristles with judicial indignation over Werner's conduct.

Giulia Morosini had an income of $75,000 a year when her father, Giovanni Morosini, died in 1909. The father was an Italian banker in New York and was several times a millionaire. One of his daughters married the family butler and another child's marriage was displeasing to the father, who made Giulia promise that she would marry during her lifetime. Giulia devoted herself to dress, jewels and show, and is said to have spent $200,000 a year on these things.

Arthur M. Werner was a mounted policeman in New York, who attracted the attention of the Italian banker, who made him superintendent of the Morosini estate at Riverdale-on-the-Hudson. Werner had a wife living, but after the death of Giovanni Morosini he arranged with her to go to Reno, Nevada, and sue him for divorce. He also went to Nevada and appeared by an attorney at the trial, which took place within a week after her arrival in Nevada. Mrs. Werner in her complaint in the Nevada court swore she was a resident of Nevada, and Werner also swore in his answer that he was a resident of that state. The law of Nevada requires six months' residence before a person becomes entitled to sue for divorce, but as both Werner and his wife had sworn that they were residents of the state, the Nevada court accepted their statements and a decree was granted to Mrs. Werner, to whom $15,000 was paid by Werner. He had had the management of Miss Morosini's affairs and income and Judge Hasbrouck says "the inference is inescapable" that the money paid to Mrs. Werner was that of Miss Morosini.

Miss Morosini married Werner less than four months after the Nevada decree of divorce had been granted to Mrs. Werner. After a time he threatened to return to the police force, and she agreed to pay him $10,000 a year during his life if he would not. Later she learned that the Nevada divorce granted to Mrs. Werner, the first wife, was illegal, and was also informed that Werner was living with her; so she shut the gates of her estate against him and stopped payments under the $10,000-a-year agreement. He sued her to recover under that agreement, and last December they agreed to settle all claims between them by the payment to Werner of $55,000.

About the same time Miss Morosini began an action for annulment of her marriage to Werner, and laid the venue of the action in Sullivan county. Judge Hasbrouck appointed Judge C. Atkins referee to take the testimony and report to the court, and on February 19 a motion was made to confirm Referee Atkins's report, which was in favor of Miss Morosini.

Judge Hasbrouck discusses three questions in his opinion: First, if the Nevada divorce is valid in New York state; second, if invalid, can it be attacked collaterally; third, is it proper under the circumstances that Miss Morosini have the relief she asked.

Werner's conduct, which comes in for consideration by Judge Hasbrouck, and whether Miss Morosini came into court "with clean hands" are discussed at length in consideration of the third question raised by Judge Hasbrouck, whose opinion in full is as follows:

Judge Hasbrouck's Opinion.
Giulia P. Morosini, sometimes called Giulia M. Werner, plaintiff, against Arthur M. Werner, defendant.—Action for annulment of marriage. Appearance—Sponner & Cotton, Esqs., attorneys for plaintiff; Henry S. Dottenheim, Esq., attorney for defendant.

Mem.
Hasbrouck, J.
Arthur M. Werner, the defendant, married Alice Redding in 1897. In 1907 he was a mounted policeman of the city of New York located at Kingsbridge. In that year he made the acquaintance of Giulia Morosini, in the same year became superintendent of the Morosini estate. In the fall of 1909 Giovanni Morosini, father of Giulia, a prominent financier of New York city, died. This acquaintance immediately upon its being formed ripened into such a relation that Werner on the strength of it secured money from Miss Morosini right along for the asking. As heir of her father Giulia came into the possession of an income of $75,000 a year. In September, 1910, Werner arranged with his wife to procure a divorce in the state of Nevada from him. The decree was secured. Werner went to Nevada and the 20th of September and his wife arrived at Reno two or three days afterwards and a decree was signed September 27. The laws of the state of Nevada at that time required a bona fide residence of six months in Nevada before a domicile could be obtained entitling a party to institute a suit for divorce. Upon entering the decree Werner caused $15,000 to be paid his wife. Miss Morosini swears she never knew of that circumstance until she read it in a newspaper several years afterwards. Miss Morosini and the defendant Werner had a marriage ceremony performed between them at Somerville in the state of New Jersey, January 12, 1911.

After the ceremony the defendant was entrusted with the expenditure of Miss Morosini's income of $75,000 a year; to pay it out to meet the expenses of maintenance; for Miss Morosini's requirements; and he was permitted to draw against the said sum for his own use provided he acquainted Miss Morosini of the amount drawn. This limitation of his power after awhile became irksome and disagreeable and he threatened to return to the police force unless provision for his compensation as superintendent was made. July 15, 1912, Miss Morosini, in consideration of his consenting not to re-enter the police department of the city of New York, agreed to pay him $10,000 in each year quarterly on the first days of July, October, January and April during his natural life. The plaintiff paid the defendant the quarterly installments of $2,500 each due under said agreement up to and inclusive of the one due on January 15, 1914. On or about April 1st of that year, she consulted Joseph P. Cotton, of the plaintiff's attorneys, Sponner & Cotton, and upon that day excluded the defendant Werner from the premises either because as she testified that she "was informed" that he was with his first wife or because Werner said "I (plaintiff) was not his wife" or because Mr. Cotton informed her that in his opinion Werner's Nevada divorce was invalid and that he had no legal right to marry her.

Upon the plaintiff's refusal to pay the defendant the quarterly installment of $2,500 due April 15, 1914, he brought suit against her to recover the same. That suit is still at issue.

On or about the 14th day of December, 1915, plaintiff and defendant entered into an arrangement, stated in general terms, by which he agreed to settle "all claims, actions and causes of action either party has against the other" by the payment to the first party by the second party of the sum of $55,000 in return for which the actions for quarterly installments are to be dismissed and mutual releases to be executed.

No proper disposition of the suit at bar can be made without consideration of the character of the parties to it. Arthur M. Werner, the defendant, active business man, long one of the guardians of the peace of society, is described by one of the witnesses to be "a very intelligent person" and a "highly forceful man." Giulia Morosini is described to be "an Italian of very little education and of mental development insufficient to understand the legal points of her relations to Werner" and further as a "weak woman." Mr. Cotton swears "the lady was very much dominated by Mr. Werner."

Werner's conduct in being willing to divorce his first wife, Alice Redding; to receive from the courts of Nevada a divorce which he and his attorney must have known, based on a seven days' visit to that state, to be illegal; in purchasing his wife to consent thereto; in suffering his wife in her bill of complaint in the Nevada court to swear that she "is an actual and bona fide resident and inhabitant of the state of Nevada, residing in the city of Reno, Washoe county, state of Nevada," and in swearing in his answer that he "admits defendant (himself) resides at Carson city, Ormsby county, state of Nevada, and within the above named judicial district;" being willing to receive large sums of money from Miss Morosini prior to his marriage to her; in forcing an agreement from her for $10,000 a year by a representation of procuring reinstatement in the police force; and finally in inducing her to enter into an agreement to pay him $55,000 in consideration of a release, reveals a character unusually despicable. One cannot read the record of this affair and miss the inference that Werner's sole purpose through it all was to exploit Miss Morosini for the purpose of securing as much as possible of the Morosini patrimony.

The facts above set forth suggest several questions, which should be disposed of before reaching a determination as to a proper decree in the premises.

First—Is the decree of divorce between Alice Werner and Arthur M. Werner a valid decree in the state of New York?

Second—If invalid may such decree be attacked collaterally?

Third—Is it under the circumstances proper that Miss Morosini should have the relief she asks? The District Court of the First Judicial District of the State of Nevada had jurisdiction of the parties in the action of Alice Werner against Arthur M. Werner for the annulment of her marriage to Werner and he appeared by his attorney. But jurisdiction to dissolve the ties of marriage between citizens of other states does not exist unless the court possesses jurisdiction on the subject matter of the action—the marriage relation.

Maynard vs. Hill, 125 U. S. 190.
However, the wife although she submitted herself to the jurisdiction of the court never obtained a domicile in Nevada and thus had no right to institute a divorce action. The "domicile of matrimony" was and remained in New York state. The District Court of the First Judicial District of the State of Nevada was then wholly and entirely without authority or jurisdiction to interfere with the relation of a matrimony of parties domiciled in and citizens of New York. Mr. Justice White, now chief justice of the United States Supreme Court states the reason clearly in Haddock vs. Haddock, 210 U. S. 563:

"This becomes clear when it is perceived that if one government because of its authority over its own citizens has the right to dissolve the marriage tie as to the citizens of another jurisdiction, it must follow that its own government possesses as to its own citizens power over the marriage relation and its dissolution. For if it be true that one government in virtue of its authority over marriage may dissolve the tie as to citizens of another government, other governments would have a similar power, and hence the right of every government as to its own citizens might be rendered nugatory by the exercise of the power which every other government possessed."

The action brought by Alice Werner in Nevada against her husband was perfectly barren of any legal result. The Nevada action was without force. There was no divorce. Alice and Arthur remained husband and wife.

The second question is, "May such a decree be attacked collaterally?" Suggestion has been made that it may not. That for the court to suffer it would be to ignore the far reaching and beneficial provisions of the full faith and credit clause of the constitution of the United States. I think that it is well settled that when the only complaint against a judgment or decree of a sister state is that it is the result of fraud or collusion—the court having had jurisdiction of the parties and subject matter—such judgment may not be attacked collaterally. The vindication of the judgment undoubtedly remains for the court of the state out of which it is issued.

Rupp vs. Rupp, 156 A. D. 390.

But Rupp vs. Rupp is not authority in the case at bar. The circumstances of that case were that the plaintiff had obtained a domicile and the right therefore to bring suit for divorce in South Dakota and that the defendant personally appeared therein. Thus that court had jurisdiction both of the parties and subject matter. The Nevada court had not. Consequently the full faith and credit clause of the constitution may not be invoked to defeat the plaintiff here. The right to attack a judgment of the court of a sister state collaterally should not be denied the litigant where jurisdiction to make the decree did not exist in such court. This was said in Thompson vs. Whitman, 18 Wallace, 457.

"We think it is clear that the jurisdiction of the court by which a judgment is rendered in any state may be questioned in a collateral proceeding in another state, notwithstanding the provision of the fourth article of the constitution and the law of 1790 and notwithstanding . . ."

Rose vs. Himely, 4 Cranch, 241-269.
Andrews vs. Andrews, 188 U. S. 35, and cases cited.
Guzgenheim vs. Wahl, 203 N. Y. 330.

The third question involving as it does the propriety of action upon the part of the court has been the most difficult to solve. It does not follow that because a party has a right she is entitled to a remedy, for she may have been guilty of conduct so unseemly and unbecoming as to have placed herself beyond the pale of consideration for relief. If the action for an annulment were a statutory one, to which equitable principles were not applicable, the right of plaintiff to an adequate remedy would be indisputable. But this is an action for annulment and in such actions it has been held the supreme court has the power of its predecessor court of chancery. In discussing the right to relief of a man who had knowingly contracted a bigamous marriage, Justice Clark, now presiding justice of the appellate division, first department, said:

"I take it, therefore, that the doctrine is still true that while its entire jurisdiction in matrimonial causes is conferred and regulated by statutes, yet in the exercise of that jurisdiction, unless controlled by positive enactment it proceeds as a court of equity."

Berry vs. Berry, 130 A. D. 59.

This brings us to a consideration of the conduct of Miss Morosini. It is certain that she knew of the marriage of Werner to Alice Redding. The inference is inexorable that the money paid her to consent to the Nevada decree was that of the plaintiff here. Are these circumstances enough to say to her the court will not hear you—you come not "with clean hands." Where the uncleanness is that of fraud and collusion it has been held that relief should be denied.

Rupp vs. Rupp, supra.

Berry vs. Berry, supra.
But where the decree complained against was defective from a jurisdictional standpoint, I have not seen it held that a bill of relief might not be entertained.

However that may be I am not satisfied that Miss Morosini knew that her money was being used for Werner to buy a divorce from Alice Redding. I am satisfied that she has no intellectual strength; that she is a weak woman; that the defendant, in the days of her mature womanhood, made love to her and that reciprocating and under the spell of the "sublime passion" she became the easy prey of this "forceful man," the defendant. She wanted nothing but money. From whatever angle we hold these circumstances up to view sordid lust of the defendant after money seems ever present. Such being the motive in this drama in real life there should be no difficulty in exculpating an unoffending player. For all the wrongs this woman and the court of a sister state have been subjected to, the court here can furnish no adequate remedy. The least that can be given is a judgment of annulment.

Judgment for plaintiff with costs.

Fatally Injured by Snow Plow.

Cyrus Kipp of Stamford sustained a fracture of the skull when struck by the Ulster & Delaware railroad snow plow Friday afternoon while shoveling snow from the tracks at Stamford. He was removed to the Fox Memorial hospital at Oneonta and died Saturday. He was 66 years old and twice married and had been in the employ of the railroad company two years.

MISS BARBARA THAW
New York Society Girl to Wed Naval Officer.

New York, March 13.—One of the early spring weddings that is interesting society is that of Miss Barbara Thaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Blair Thaw, and Lieutenant Scott B. MacFarlane, U. S. N. The wedding will take place in the Church of the Heavenly Rest on April 28.

Miss Thaw's sister, Miss Beatrice Thaw, was married to the Marquis Francesco Theodoli and lives in the Castello di Ciciliano, Preno, Rome, Italy. Her second sister is Miss Katherine B. Thaw. She is also a niece of Benjamin Thaw of Pittsburgh and New York. Her mother is an accomplished artist and was before her marriage Miss Florence Dow.

Miss Thaw made her debut a year ago at a dance given by her mother. She has played in many amateur entertainments for charity and has spent much time abroad.

Lieutenant MacFarlane is attached to the Oklahoma, now on temporary duty at the Torpedo Station, Newport.

ROCKING CHAIRS.

At First They Were Crude Affairs, Just Patched Up Armchairs.

"The history of the rocking chair is yet to be written," says Walter A. Dyer in "Early American Craftsmen." "According to some writers, rockers began to appear in this country before 1750, and Windsor rockers soon after the Revolution. Others assert that Windsor rockers were not made until about 1810 and that most of the so called Windsor rocking chairs are simply old armchairs cut down and fitted with rockers. Certainly none of the early advertisements or inventories included any mention of rocking chairs."

"The first rockers were merely short boards cut straight across the top and rounded on the bottom. Then the top side was shaped, and later the rocker was fashioned much as that of today, except that it extended only four or five inches back of the rear legs. It was not until 1820 or so that the discovery was made that rockers lengthened behind increased the safety and comfort of the chair. During the decade following that astonishing discovery the popularity of the rocking chair spread rapidly."

An English lady visiting the United States a few years ago declared that one of the most curious sights to her upon her landing was the rocking chair, to which at first she feared to intrust herself, but later learned to enjoy most thoroughly.

EARLY RAILROADING.

The First American Made Locomotive Was Built in 1830.

The first locomotives in the United States were brought over from England by Horatio Allen of New York in the fall of 1829 or the spring of 1830, and one of them was set up on the Delaware and Hudson railroad at Carbondale, Pa.; but, being found too heavy for the track, its use was abandoned.

The first locomotive constructed in this country was built by the West Point foundry at New York in 1830 for the South Carolina railroad and named the Phoenix. A second engine was built the same year by the same establishment and for the same railroad and named the West Point.

In the spring of 1831 a third engine was built by the same establishment for the Mohawk and Hudson railroad from Albany to Schenectady and called the De Witt Clinton. This was the first locomotive run in the state of New York.

The first Stephenson locomotive ever imported into this country was the Robert Fulton. This engine was brought out in the summer of 1831 for the Mohawk and Hudson railroad. It was subsequently rebuilt and named the John Bull.

The Mystery of a Duel.

Having fought his duel and saved his honor by firing a shot in the air, the editor of a French provincial newspaper went back to his desk, and the incident had quite left his mind when he felt something strange in his thigh. He looked and found that he was bleeding profusely. A doctor was called, who discovered that a bullet was imbedded in the editor's thigh some two inches deep and required extraction. "Why was this not taken notice of on the spot where the duel took place?" he asked. The editor was as much in the dark as the doctor. At the moment of the duel he had fired into the air, and his adversary also took a distracted sort of aim. The editor felt nothing as he left the field and had shaken hands with his antagonist as a sign of reconciliation. How a bullet came to be lodged in his thigh was simply one of the mysteries of dueling.

HIS CHEF D'OEUVRE

It Gained Him a Reputation Which Profited Him Not

By ESTHER VANDEVEER

George Ashley at twenty-two was an artist with a highly artistic temperament. He had been brought up among women who were of the very best, and he idealized woman in the abstract. Having had nothing to do with others, he knew nothing about them. Indeed, he had his own conceptions of the spiritual beauty of a good woman and knew neither her strong points nor her foibles. Possibly he might have come nearer the composite of an excellent woman had not his associates been very youthful and their characters not entirely formed.

Ashley was ambitious to paint a picture of his ideal of womanhood. He did not care to portray a Madonna; there were already sufficient Madonnas in the world, some of them painted by artists that he could not hope to emulate. He desired to give his ideal the garb of the twentieth century. Of course all depended on his model. His conceptions were like a flock of birds, flying in the air and refusing to remain quiet long enough to be photographed. Genius must have a foundation on which to build, and when the foundation is established there must be a starting point. A novelist who evolved in words one of the great pictures of the world said that he paced the floor for days dreaming it, but had he not finally begun to write his dreams would never have been anything but dreams.

Where was George Ashley to find a woman through whose physical perfection shone this purity that he wished to depict? He was not rich, but had the means to go about looking for his model. This he did. He visited different countries. On the street, in hotels, in public gardens, he was constantly peering into the faces of women he met looking for that which would serve to concentrate his dreams and reduce them to reality. Many a countenance he noticed, thinking that it was the one he wanted, but on examination was found deficient. Friends became interested in his search, and his attention was called by different persons to a number of women who it was supposed might serve his purpose.

The artist while in Florence, Italy, having run short of funds, established a studio for the purpose of keeping in practice and recouping his finances. He soon achieved some reputation as a portrait painter and received orders enough to maintain him and keep him reasonably busy.

One day an American lady and her daughter came in to his studio, the mother saying that he had been recommended to her to paint her daughter's portrait.

If Miss Helen Laurence was not beautiful she was at least comely. Ashley looked at her inquiringly, as he did at all women who might possibly serve his great purpose, but saw nothing in her face to indicate that he had found his model. After an inspection of pictures he had made Mrs. Laurence took him aside and made a bargain with him to make a full length portrait of her daughter, offering a price which was at once accepted, for Ashley's ideas of money were more vague than was his ideal of a good woman.

When Miss Laurence appeared for her first sitting she was arrayed in spotless white clinging drapery that showed her fine figure to the best advantage. Her culture was of the simplest. All that dress could do to represent purity was effected. Then, too, the girl's face was stamped with innocence. She looked with her blue eyes into those of the artist with a perfect trustfulness.

"Paint me as I am," she said to him. "Don't flatter me. If you should make a Madonna of me I should not like it. I am imperfect, and a perfect person represented on the canvas would not be I."

Ashley questioned her as to what she considered imperfections and was convinced by her replies that she did not know the meaning of the word—that she was innocent. While working on her features he chatted with her to draw out her individuality. Her voice was sweet, and it was evident from what she said that she was profoundly ignorant of the wicked part of the world she lived in.

Ashley made a discovery. He had been looking for a woman whose countenance expressed purity. He now formed a theory that innocence and purity are synonymous. Whether he was right or wrong is an open question. It began to dawn upon him that having found innocence it would serve to influence him in portraying purity. He did not realize that for some time he had already been under this influence. He was first made aware of it by noticing in the face he was putting on the canvas evidence that he was on the way to realize his ideal.

He was not so impractical as to suppose that he would ever realize that ideal, for he well knew the impossibility of any such realization. He simply knew that he had found an inspiration. He found something more than an inspiration. He found that which he had never before experienced—love. This was quite naturally the result of peering into the face of a pretty girl for hours at a time and striving to consider her at her best that he might make a successful picture of her. His determination to make her his model for his masterpiece was an additional reason for his falling in love with her. There was a fascination about his subject which he supposed had been revealed probably to him alone. He could not see how any other man should be enthralled as he had been, for he laid his enthusiasm to his peculiar perceptive faculties which enabled him to perceive a perfect embodiment of purity.

When the picture was finished it was a marked success, not as a portrait, but as a representation of purity. The model's mother accepted it without comment, though it was a likeness of her daughter, for it was a beautiful picture. It was placed in a conspicuous position and much admired, but few of those who were acquainted with the subject recognized it as her portrait. Nevertheless Ashley had become so absorbed in his model that he failed to be elated with his success. During the last sittings his subject, by frequent casting down of her eyes under his gaze, by pouting her pretty lips at his inattention on his part, had given evidence that her innocent heart had gone out to meet his. Since he was poor and had not yet made a name for himself in his profession, he hesitated to declare his love. He was unable to tear himself away from Miss Laurence, nor did she seem inclined to part with him. After the finishing of her portrait, or rather, his conception of purity, he was unable to work. The mornings usually found him in one of the galleries, where he expected to meet the girl who had captivated him. He was seldom disappointed, though she was not always alone. While she was sitting for him, so far as he knew her time was exclusively his own, but now that she had no engagements with him she was free to go about with whom she liked, and since he was not occupied he had an opportunity to meet her in other company. Although Ashley suffered the pangs of jealousy upon seeing Miss Laurence with other cavaliers, she always reassured him with one of her sweetest smiles on such occasions and not infrequently would make it plain to him that she wished him to join her. When relieved of her other attendant she would take him to the Boboli gardens, in rear of the Pitti gallery, than which there is no more fitting place for lovers. These gardens are representative of the medieval method of cultivating shrubbery and flowers. The perfume of the latter alone is conducive to love. In the evening they would walk together on the Arno embankment, which when the lamps are lighted is as near fairyland as any real scene that can be produced. But it was in the apartment occupied by Miss Laurence and her mother, where the lovers were alone together, that Ashley broke down and confessed his love and his fears. She received this confession and his fears with no definite response. He was hoping one morning that a reputation would come from his masterpiece to enable him to muster courage to propose to his model, when, taking up a morning journal, he saw an announcement that a young American had the night before committed suicide by jumping from the Ponte Vecchio, a medieval bridge, into the Arno. It was hinted that the young man had taken himself off for love of a fair countrywoman. Ashley recognized the name of a man he had seen with Helen Laurence one day in the gallery of the Pitti palace and to whom he had been introduced by her. As an American, Ashley considered it his duty to go to the lodgings of the young man to learn if anything was to be done in the premises. On reaching the house—a pension on the Lung Arno, which means in English the Arno embankment—he made inquiries of the proprietor. He told the artist that the suicide's mother and sister were there and a brother was expected during the day. "I noticed," said Ashley, "that at American lady was the cause."

"Yes, signor; the lady whose portrait is now attracting so much attention. This episode will likely make the artist's fortune."

Ashley seemed turned to marble. He stood looking at the man as if stricken by some fearful calamity. The other, who was handing a key to a guest at the moment, did not notice his changed appearance and continued:

"The American is not the only one who has suffered from this same cause. An Englishman made a great ado when the lady refused him, and one of our own citizens, a prince, fell into the same pit. Among her victims she is named La Belle Dame Sans Merci, after an English poem."

Ashley staggered out into the open air. Standing with a hand on the stone coping that protects the sidewalk from the river, it seemed for awhile as if he would be another victim to La Belle Dame Sans Merci. But presently, steadying himself by the coping, he walked slowly in the direction of his studio.

The idle prediction of the landlord was fulfilled. The story attached to his picture of purity was well known, and every one visited it from curiosity if for no other reason. Since the name of the artist was attached to it, he might have taken advantage of the reputation it gave him to make a fortune, but he never painted another picture and was never seen again in Florence after that morning.

After the suicide a story concerning Miss Laurence's part in the matter was hushed up. It appears that, having heard of the young American who was hunting for a model of purity, she made a bet that she would sit for the picture and that it would be a success. She, too, left Florence immediately after the tragedy and returned to America, where it is to be hoped she repented of her many sins.

Odd Hair Styles.

Some of the New Hebrides people do their hair up in a bunch on the top of the head and stain it yellow, while the inhabitants of the Ombai islands pass it all through a tube, so as to make a kind of plume. The Marquesas chief's favorite method is to shave all the head except two patches, one over each temple, where he cultivates two horns of hair. No doubt this is to render him more a thing of terror to his enemies than admiration to his friends. His reason for shaving the rest of the head is to allow more space for tattooing, as if all the available skin of the body were not enough for decorative purposes.—London Standard.

The Drug, Caffeine, in Coffee Is A Habit-Forming Agent

Bulletin 393 U. S. Department of Agriculture, entitled "Habit-Forming Agents," referring to caffeine and other ingredients used in the manufacture of certain soft drinks, headache mixtures, etc., says:

"Until recently it was claimed by some that these agents were harmless and did not belong to the habit-forming group. Later investigations, however, clearly show that this position is unwarranted."

The average cup of coffee contains about 21-2 grains of caffeine. Mothers give it to their children and wives give it to their husbands—unconscious of the harm coffee does to your health.

When the nerves cry out, or indigestion, or biliousness, headache or heart flutter, begin to trouble, it's time to look to the cause.

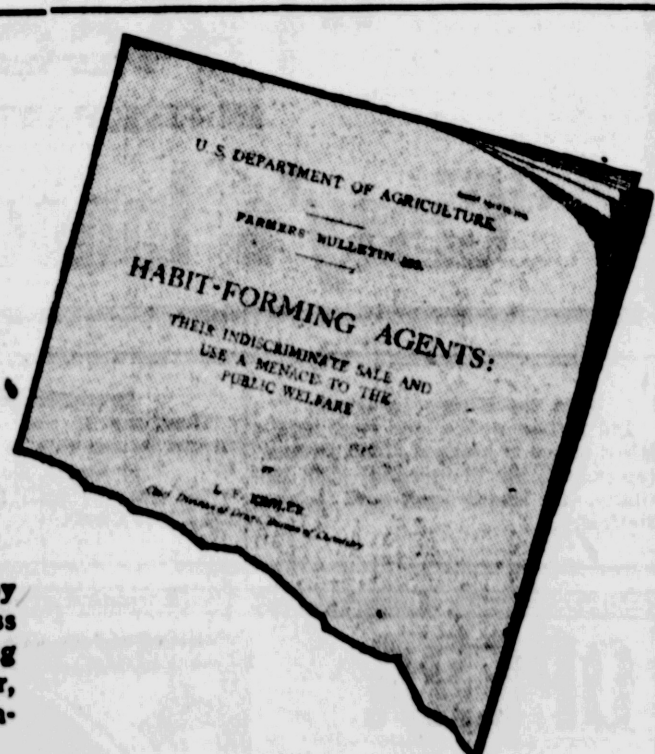

Any easy, sure way out of coffee troubles is to quit the coffee, and use

There are two forms of Postum. The original Postum Cereal must be boiled; Instant Postum is quickly soluble in hot water, more convenient to prepare, and has the same rich flavor as the original Postum. Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, whose highminded determination to secure only trusted help in his department, is credited with the preference of a numerous body of relatives and near friends, has been further obliged to turn his back on the practical plagues of politics within his own party. Evidence of his attitude is furnished in telegrams exchanged between the cabinet officer and State Senator James Green of Massachusetts. The latter appears to have been running true to form when he wired a demand for a position or a salary increase for his brother at the hands of Secretary McAdoo stating that upon the latter's action would depend Green's conduct as a delegate to the national convention. Very properly the Secretary informed Senator Green of the enlightening point and styled the program as a practical attempt at sobriety. At the same time Mr. McAdoo did not neglect to give the

PLANS MADE FOR CHURCH MINSTRELS

A meeting was held Sunday afternoon of the Senior and Junior Holy Name Societies of St. Joseph's Church and plans were made for the annual minstrel show which is given by the parish. The date set for the show will be Monday and Tuesday, May 1 and 2, in St. Joseph's school hall. At the meeting yesterday the preliminary arrangements were made and rehearsals will shortly begin.

The show will be much better this year than in former years, and there will be a slight change of plans this year, several special features will be introduced and the usual minstrel program will be augmented with a number of new features beside the old custom of songs and jokes. The jokes are being prepared and will be new, of course, the latest songs and music will be given and in every way the blackface amusement producers of St. Joseph's parish promise to outdo all former shows. David Freer has been appointed a committee of one to take charge of the arrangements and rehearsals will shortly begin under his supervision in order to have the program in excellent order for the first presentation.

The ladies of the Children of Mary Sodality will have charge of the refreshments which will be placed on sale during the dancing which will follow the big show.

For a number of years the annual minstrel show of St. Joseph's Church has been one of the biggest and best minstrel performances given in the city by local talent and plans for this year's show call for an even more elaborate program. The cast of characters is chosen with the greatest care and every number on the program is new, bright and snappy. That the hall will be filled to capacity on both nights is a certainty.

REPORT ON PALISADES PARK.

Commissioners and Counsel Given $10,000 and $16,500 Fees.

Confirmation of the findings and awards of the palisades Park Commission of $2,325,000 for land condemned for state park purposes along the Hudson on the palisades, was asked by the commissioner before Judge Morschauser. Mortgages of $4,500,000 are assumed in addition to the cash payment. Each of the three commissioners, Judge Edgar M. Cullen, Judge Frank J. Young and Walter G. Hamilton, county treasurer of Rockland county, was granted $10,000 for services, while Judge Hatch, whose contract calls for $500 a day while he served and $250 when consulted, was granted $16,500. Judge L. J. Arnold, attorney for mortgages, asked $21,000, but the court took the request under consideration.

Auto Show Window Displays.

In many of the store windows are small pennants announcing the coming auto show to be held on March 20, 31 and April 1. A number of the shops also display an auto tire as a part of their window decoration.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to thank our many friends and neighbors for their kind deeds during the illness of our daughter, and also to all who by their kind words and acts expressed their sympathy to us in our bereavement, and also wish to thank all who sent floral tributes. We are especially grateful to the services rendered by the choir of St. Peter's Church.

BOY SCOUTS AID CIRCLES OF MERCY

The following articles have been sent out this month by the Kingston Circles of Mercy, now acting as a branch of the National Surgical Dressings Committee, to New York, to be forwarded to France:

10 packages of bandages, 10 in a package.
110 booters.
13 packages gauze metres, 10 in a package.
2 scarfs.
100 bags tampons, 10 in a bag.
15 fracture pillows.
24 packages absorbent pads, 5 in a package.
19 packages oakum pads, 5 in a package.

These were sent out on Thursday last, March 9.

Boy Scouts' Help Work.

Last Saturday there were 29 Boy Scouts at the Y. M. C. A. building busily engaged in picking oakum for the making of pads, and this aid from the boys means a very great help in the work, as heretofore the making of pads has been hampered sadly because there was not sufficient oakum ready to be made up. On Saturday last, Fred Port, of Troop 2, acted as captain, there being 14 boys from Troop 1, 13 boys from Troop 2, and 2 boys from Troops helping with the work. Hereafter the names of the individual boys who aid in this work will be published.

Objects to Y. M. C. A. Movies.

A petition has been filed with the Chamber of Commerce asking that body to take steps toward the abolition of moving pictures now operated in connection with the Y. M. C. A. One moving picture manager is said to have signed the document. He asks action, it is said, on the ground that the organization is semi-public and is entering into competition with his private business.

Projecting Your Personality.

Can any man's life be held to be incomplete if it is continued in the life of a friend? Was Arthur Hallam's life incomplete when Tennyson prolonged it forever by "In Memoriam" or the life of Socrates when Plato continued it in his immortal dialogues? Confucius said wisely, "Have no friends not equal to yourself." By that he must have meant, "Make your friends equal to yourself by giving them freely of your best." Thus you make sure of a continued life whatever happens to yourself, as a manufacturer intrusts the secrets of his manipulations to his younger partners.—Christian Herald.

Soldiers in Napoleon's Day.

There are five things that a soldier should never be without—his gun, his cartridge, his knapsack, rations for four days and his pickpocket tools. The knapsack should be reduced to the smallest possible weight and size and contain only a shirt, a pair of shoes, a collar, a handkerchief and a flint of steel. This is not much, but he should never part from them, for when once lost they cannot be recovered.—Napoleon.

One Way.

"Now, Johnny," said the teacher, "suppose you wanted to build a $1,000 house and had only $700 what would you do?"

"I 'spose I'd have to marry a girl worth $300," answered the young financier.—Kansas City Star.

Two Finds.

"I found a ten dollar bill this morning."

"That shows you are lucky. Have a gift for finding things?"

"My gift stuck by me too long. Next I found the owner."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Flavoring With Corncobs.

In making succotash, scrape the corn from the cobs and add a little cold water to it, making it as creamy as possible. Then place the cobs in the kettle with the beans and boil until time to put in the corn. The result will be a sweetness and creaminess not usually found in succotash.

TOM SHARKEY.

SHARKEY EXPECTS MORAN TO WIN BY KNOCKOUT.

San Francisco, March 13.—Tom Sharkey, the former pugilist, who fought Jeffries, Fitzsimmons and Corbett expects Frank Moran to win from Champion Jess Willard, by a knockout, when the two meet in the ring in Madison Square Garden, New York, on March 25.

"I have seen both men box and I really believe that the challenger from Pittsburgh is much the cleverer," says Sharkey.

"Moran is an inch over six feet; Willard is six inches taller. Jess weighs 270 pounds or thereabouts, and I cannot see how he can be in condition and carry that much weight.

"I know that Moran has a knockout punch and I think he will land it before the ten rounds are over. But even if he does not win by a knockout, I favor Frank to get the popular decision.

"I cannot see how a boxer who could not win from Gunboat Smith, a light heavyweight, can expect to win from a big fellow like Moran. Smith weighed something like 180 pounds when he boxed Willard twenty rounds out here on the coast, and Willard was too easy for him.

And Moran surely carries a fight to an opponent much harder and faster than Smith does.

"Any man who weighs 190 pounds, about the weight of Jim Mace and John L. Sullivan when they were at their best, is big enough to lick anybody."

Father Paul at St. Joseph's.

The Rev. Father Paul James Francis of St. Peter's Priory, Garrison, N. Y., will deliver the first of a series of Lenten sermons tomorrow evening, at St. Joseph's Church, when his topic will be "The Soul and Sin." Throughout the Lenten season these services will be conducted by Father Paul James Francis on each Tuesday evening. All Christian men and women are invited to attend these services. There will be music and congregation singing at the service.

A.W. THOMPSON DEAD AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Former Mayor Aaron Wesley Thompson died after a prolonged illness on Sunday morning at 1:30 o'clock at his home, No. 35 West Chester street, in his 49th year. He had been confined to his home since the beginning of the year and death resulted from Bright's disease and heart failure.

For nearly thirty years Captain Thompson had been actively identified with the business interests of Kingston. For the past fourteen years he had been cashier of the

A. WESLEY THOMPSON.

Rondout National Bank, which under his cashiership became one of the most prosperous banks in the Hudson valley.

Graduating from Ulster Academy in 1886, Captain Thompson immediately entered the employ of the Rondout National Bank as clerk. He was promoted to teller February 1, 1895, and became cashier on January 14, 1902. The surplus and profits when he became cashier were $30,000, but under his able cashiership they increased to $103,000.

At an early age he became actively interested in military affairs, and enlisted in the Fourteenth Separate Company. He served as private, corporal, sergeant, first sergeant and captain, and was captain of the company when he received an honorable discharge on February 7, 1893, his other activities not permitting him to devote longer the time necessary for maintaining the high standard the company had achieved.

After the Fourteenth Separate Company responded to the call for volunteers at the beginning of the Spanish War and entered the United States service, Captain Thompson was designated by the military authorities at Albany to recruit the One Hundred and Fourteenth Separate Company and he was again commissioned as captain. He recruited the new company up to full strength; many members of the new company left Kingston afterwards to join the line regiment to which the former Fourteenth Separate Company belonged, and the quota of other regiments was also filled from that company. Captain Thompson drilled the new company throughout the summer of 1898 and in the fall he again received honorable discharge.

For many years Captain Thompson was active in Republican politics. He was the first president of the Republican Club of Ulster county and headed that organization when it made its trip to Washington to take part in the inauguration of Theodore Roosevelt as president.

In 1904 he was nominated by the Republican city convention for member of the board of education and was elected by a majority of 430. The following year he was elected mayor of the city by a majority of 525. In the performance of his official duties as mayor he devoted much time and energy to his work. He held to the idea that public office is a public trust, and personally investigated all complaints made to him with the result that constant exposure, coupled with his ordinary work, resulted in a nervous breakdown and he was compelled to resign the office and leave town to recuperate. Walter P. Crane was appointed to succeed him as acting mayor. He never fully recovered from the effects of his breakdown and attributed the development of later ills to it.

His work as mayor was highly commended at the time and he has since been praised for what he accomplished. One of the first things he accomplished was the rewording of the city charter, removing many of the old provisions and putting in new ones. He next took up the establishment of a paid fire department, which project he carried through to a successful conclusion. He compelled the Colonial railroad line to run its cars on ten minute schedule during the winter months instead of the twenty minute headway under which the line had been operating, and he also effected a contract with the trolley company by which it should pay its proportionate cost of the removal of snow from streets through which its lines extend. He was appointed a supervisor of the Ninth Ward on November 7, 1914, and was elected to that office last November.

Captain Thompson possessed a thorough knowledge of business and banking. He took much pleasure in reading and was well informed on problems of city government and well acquainted with what other municipalities are doing. His ideas of conducting public business with the same fidelity displayed in private enterprise were well known to everyone with whom he came in contact and his business and personal integrity were beyond reproach. He was a staunch supporter of all measures which he believed were for the betterment of the city and county and was an implacable foe to deception and deceit. He was always frank and outspoken and never attempted to conceal from anyone his personal position on any public matter.

He was a director of the Rondout

National Bank and a trustee of the Ulster County Savings Institution. For a number of years he was a director and treasurer of the Rondout Savings and Loan Association, but resigned because of ill health. Socially he was a member of Rondout Lodge, No. 243, Free and Accepted Masons, and he was also a member of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Ella Longyear, a daughter of Nelson Longyear, and two sons, Wesley and Arthur I. Thompson, and his father, Hugh Thompson, who resided with the deceased. Funeral from the family residence Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment in Montrose cemetery at the convenience of the family.

KINGSTON'S FOREMOST STORE!

VAN WAGENEN'S

Forty-Fifth

Anniversary

Celebration

This Is An Event of Supreme Importance
By—All Means the Best in Our History!

The spirit of "Preparedness" animates the VanWagenen store from roof to basement. The cheer—the courage—the confidence that go with good plans well laid have joined in producing a livelier brand of store ENTHUSIASM and a stronger determination to render ideal Service than our organization has ever before developed.

The most extravagant claims we could advance regarding the importance of this Anniversary event would be mild when compared with the Wonderful Stocks and Wonderful Savings that are offered in every section of the store.

We embrace the occasion to introduce complete lines of new spring merchandise—as well as to present a round-up of sterling values that will provide savings of most unusual proportions.

The economies offered in this 45th Anniversary Celebration are intended as a big "thank you" for your year-round patronage, and we have labored for months, hard and earnestly, to the end that this Leap-year event should prove a triumph over our best previous record.

Real Living.
Life is what we are alive to. It is not length but breadth. To be alive is to have appetite, pleasure, pride, money-making, and not to goodness and kindness, purity and love, history, poetry, music, flowers, stars, God and eternal hopes, is to be all but dead.—Rudolf Babcock.

Unreasonable Baby.
Four-year-old Ora was trying to quiet the little new sister crying in the cradle. After several unsuccessful attempts, which tended only to increase the cries, she shook her finger fully. "Why, baby, don't you know your own folks?"

Why is yawn?
"Mamma, what is a yawn?" asked Vivien of her mamma, who was discussing this favorite of all face exercises. "Why, a yawn, baby—well—why, a yawn is a yawn," she explained. Silence for five minutes. "Mamma, asked Vivien, "can you yawn without gaping?"

Daily Thought.
If men from their youth were wearied of that sauntering humor, wherein some, out of custom, let a good part of their life run listlessly away, they would find time enough to acquire skill and dexterity in hundreds of things.—Locke.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

"Heinie the Zim now has reformed," Chicago papers says.
"He's chained his tongue forever—more
"And shed his rowdy ways."

It is hard to imagine Heinie Zimmerman in the role of a docile athlete—but stranger things could happen.

Money Wasted?

Schuyler Britton, president of the Cardinals, has insured all the regulars on his ball team.—News Item.

Great Is Richards.

Alma Richards, the great Cornell athlete, is a heroic figure of game-ness and fearlessness.

Early in his youth, Richard indulged in various sports—and invariably was injured. His left leg was sprained four times and his right leg twice. Once he broke some of the small bones in his right leg in the same accident that dislocated his wrists.

"The first time I tried a high jump, I broke my left leg above the knee," said Richards. "I was on crutches four months. The doctor told me then I ought to quit athletics—that my bones were too brittle."

But Richards ignored the advice, took a chance of permanently injuring himself—and today he ranks one of the greatest all-around athletes in intercollegiate history.

Richards won the high jump in the 1912 Olympics and in 1915 captured the all-around championship in A. A. U. competition in San Francisco. Last summer he established a new intercollegiate high jump record in Philadelphia and he ranks with the best men in the world in weight heaving, pole vaulting, hurdler and broad jumping.

The most remarkable feature of Richards' achievements is that he has become a star despite the handicap of a leg that is partially crippled. The bone break that followed Richards' first high jump did not knit evenly. Instead, the broken parts met each other at an angle, forming a clumsy "V" which protrudes to a point just beneath the skin on Richards' leg.

New Orleans Meet a Success.

"Brigadier General" Will Hamilton, commander-in-chief of the sporting staff of the New Orleans Item, sends us this:

"Reports sent up north that the race meeting in the Louisiana metropolis wasn't a money-maker are untrue. The session here this winter was one of the most prosperous in many years. Those back of it are said to have cleared $100,000 to $150,000. 'Ladies' Day' was a tremendous success and the fair sex have become enthusiastic lovers of the turf game."

Barrow's Scheme Works.

Ed. G. Barrow, proxy for the international League, feels confident that his new plan to solve the salary limit problem will be successful.

The league rules fix the maximum monthly salary limit at $3,500. In other years tail-end magnates have charged that the leaders secretly were exceeding the limit, thus securing high grade talent.

Barrow's rule now forces the magnates to send all contracts to him and he then sends them to the papers after making sure that the total salary for each club does not go beyond the limit.

MIDGETS LOSE; VARSITY SCARED

The high school Varsity and Midget basketball fives took an excursion up the river to Hudson Saturday and instead of the usual "tired and happy" return homeward at night, it was a sad and melancholy looking group of athletes which hit Kingston, the Midgets losing their first game of the year by the sad score of 39 to 18, and the high school barely nosing out the Hudson five by a score of 32 to 31.

After successfully wading through 15 encounters on basketball courts along the Hudson valley, the Midgets met their worst bumper in the form of the Hudson Y. M. C. A. Juniors, who won from the locals, not because they were superior, but due to the fact that the locals did not play their hardest. It is mighty hard to admit defeat and we are willing to do it any time, but we are sure that our little fighters could have done better if they had fought in their usual hard way. The teamwork which has characterized their playing was sadly lacking and this spelled their downfall. The whole school sympathizes with the kids but is expecting a revival of the old form in the next few games. The youths were out for the championship of the Hudson valley and therefore the defeat was hard to swallow. The varsity played gloomily, not because they won their game, but because the Midgets' defeat was a hard blow to their hopes for the Midget championship.

The Midget game was preliminary to that of the high schools, both being staged in the Hudson Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. This is the first instance of two local teams playing on the same floor out of town on the same day.

The whole Hudson team took a big part in the game, as shown by the score. If the statistician was in his right mind, the Hudsonites hung up a mighty good record from the foul line. They made 11 of their 13 chances good and we salute them with all due respect. If Martin had not been present, we would doubt that the local Midgets were alive in the game. Martin scored half of the 18 points. The score:

Varsity Gets a Scare.

Sporting folks might remember that earlier in the season the varsity team of the high school had easy picking when they walloped the Hudson team by a voluminous landslide of 32 points to 3 for Hudson. To travel to the up-river burg and come on top by one measly point seems almost an impossibility but that is what happened—at least the little blue book which contains the doings of the local team says so. Two reasons are given for this. Friday night the maroon and white went through a severe grilling when they beat the Crescent Five at the high school and were all in a poor physical condition for Saturday's game. The other is that just about three strange faces presented themselves in the Hudson lineup at Saturday's contest and we feel pretty sure that they have been long out of school. If we lost the game we would investigate their whereabouts during school hours but as we won the contest we will let it down on the credit side of our accounts for the final reckoning.

Although they felt like anything else than going through the hardships of a basketball game, we'll vouch for the fact that the locals displayed their true grit and fought their best. Anyway, the trip from Hudson to this city was more on the lines of a funeral procession than anything else.

A squint at the score shows that all the home lads did some good scoring and kept the honors well scattered. Johnson and Dolson each tied for high position in the scoring column, with ten points each.

The Hudson clan had a grand array of nationalities. Bell, a son of Africa, started off the line and he was pitted against our friend, John Palsi. Hapeman and Brooksbank were proud to trace their ancestry to the Hohenzollerns in der Deutsch-land. The strict neutrality of Hudson was shown by the fact that BeVier, a French name, was allowed to be in the same list as the two above mentioned.

DITTUS WON GAME FOR THE CRESCENTS

Whenever this burg of ours builds a Hall of Fame, conspicuously carved in the sporting department will be the name of "Billy" Dittus, the Crescent guard, who almost single-handed won Saturday night's game at the armory between his team and the Kingston Five and the championship of the city for his crew. His 21 points scored were enough to win the game by a safe margin if his teammates did no scoring whatever and we doff our caps to Willie. The final score, 35 to 16, explains the one-sidedness of the game, which proved a great contrast to the first contest staged on the Y. M. C. A. court some time ago which the Crescents won by a small margin.

Because of Dittus' excellent eye-sight the Crescents had the game under their wings most of the time. The Kingston basketballers seemed at loss in the big cage. Their unfamiliarity with the open baskets proved to be a big disadvantage for them whereas the winners were at home with baskets of this kind.

It was a sort of long-drawn affair but the 400 spectators were relieved from monotony by the pretty pass-work of the Crescents although they were a little "off" in shooting when within close proximity of the vital point.

Brown was brought into use by the Crescents, who were giants beside the little fellows from the Y. M. C. A. They tore down the floor and easily shook off whatever obstacles there were to stop their progress. Several times when the Kingston rooters were preparing to see the leather swish into the basket, long armed Dittus or Spalt would simply raise their elongated appendages and impede the progress of the ball basketballer.

Matty Bence, who held the official position of foul namer, was right on the job and let few pass his notice. A total of 50 for the evening being called, which somewhat slowed the game.

Billy Cism, who, by the way, spends his past time working for The Freeman, entered the limelight by his speedy playing and garnered six points for the evening's work, two of them being from a hard shot at good distance from the basket. Spalt also played a hard game for his team and broke up a large number of the enemy's plays. Robinson, the Crescent forward, although scoring few points, helped to a great extent in the plays from loss up, and put up a good battle throughout.

For the Kingston Five Craig gets the honors, tallying most of the points, although he was at sea at the jump-up. Spalt overshadowing him in this respect because of his superior height.

The first half was more closely contested than the last, the score being 16 to 10 at half time. In the final period, the Crescents found their bearings and had matters their own way, tallying 19 points while their opponents were garnering six.

This was the last big game of the year and the big crowd enjoyed music furnished for dancing by McLean's eight piece orchestra.

SPEED OF JOE LOOMIS

Covers Ground by Clearing Ten Feet at Each Stride.

Long Legs Make Him Hurdle Topper of National Repute—Only Athlete to Hold Three National Championships at One Time.

Easterners, when they first saw Joseph Gilbert Loomis in action, called him a "kangaroo runner" and laughed at his "form." Since then the Chicago star has shown that speed and not "form" wins championships. He defended his national title, won at Baltimore, in 1914, by defeating the best of the West and East since that time. Joe stands six feet four inches in his running shoes and his legs are proportionately long. Ten feet a step is his stride. That's the way he covers the ground. Hence in a 100-yard race he takes but 30 steps in flying over the cinders at a rate of 30 feet, or three steps, a second. Striding at this rate Joe could travel a mile, if he had the stamina, in 528 steps. The average mile runner takes about 1,760 steps, or three feet at a step. Joe's long legs also make him a hurdle topper of national repute. He is the only man who ever held three national championships so far as records show, for he captured the century, high jump and high hurdles in 1914. He is as thin as a sapling, thrives on training rules and actually puts on flesh while following the allurements of the cinder path. His admirers say he will be stepping the century in less than ten seconds after he has acquired all the tricks of starting and perfected this stride and that in time he will cover the 100 yards in faster time than the standing record of 9.25 seconds. Loomis shattered his own record of Joseph Gilbert Loomis.

11½ seconds for the 100-yard hurdles in New York city by covering the distance in 11 seconds flat.

LITTLE PICK-UPS
- OF SPORT -

New motto of organized ball of 1916 is "Get the dough."

Al Pennock will not do any active training this year, owing to an injured ligament.

They are going to hang on to Iowa Todd, 2.04½, this spring, after a let-up of two years.

John Fleming, the elongated driver of Little Cheeny, is at Memphis with a string of horses.

George Stellars, a Chicago pitcher signed by the White Sox, won eighteen out of nineteen games he pitched for a semipro team in 1915.

Ball players who drew their salaries from the deceased Federal league last season say that Eddie Rousch is the best fly catcher in the country.

Mrs. Britten seems to be a hold-out against selling the Cardinals this year. She stands pat on the assertion the team will not be sold.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS
DEFEAT NEWBURGH

Saturday afternoon the Kingston high school girls received a gentle little team from Passaic Hall in Newburgh with open arms, and before their visit came to an end the local girls had scored their goal with a basketball score of 40 points for Kingston and 12 for Newburgh.

The game was not a thrilling encounter, and aside from the displacement of a few ribbons and caps, it was a pleasant, quiet hour for both teams and on-lookers.

Miss Seigel and the girls coach from Newburgh officiated and after the game the home team served refreshments to the visiting team.

PEPPERY OPINION IN WERNER CASE

Judge Hasbrouck Decides Marriage of Wealthy Woman to Mounted Policeman Should be Annulled and Explains Why.

The celebrated suit brought by Miss Morosini to have her marriage to Arthur M. Werner annulled has been decided by Judge Hasbrouck in favor of Miss Morosini, in an opinion which bristles with judicial indignation over Werner's conduct.

Guilia Morosini had an income of $15,000 a year when her father, Giovanni Morosini, died in 1909. The father was an Italian banker in New York and was several times a millionaire. One of his daughters married the family butler and another child's marriage was displeasing to the father, who made Guilia promise that she would not marry during her lifetime. Guilia devoted herself to dress, jewels and show, and in 1910 she had spent $200,000 a year on these things.

Arthur M. Werner was a mounted policeman in New York, who attracted the attention of the Italian banker, who made him superintendent of the Morosini estate at Riverdale-on-the-Hudson. Werner had a wife living, but after the death of Giovanni Morosini he arranged with her to go to Reno, Nevada, and sue him for divorce. He also went to Nevada and appeared by an attorney at the trial, which took place within a week after their arrival in Nevada. Mrs. Werner in her complaint in the Nevada court swore she was a resident of Nevada, and Werner also swore to that state. The law of Nevada requires six months' residence before a person becomes entitled to sue for divorce, but as both Werner and his wife had sworn that they were residents of the state, the Nevada court accepted their statements and a decree was granted to Mrs. Werner, to whom $15,000 was paid by Werner. He had had the management of Miss Morosini's affairs and income and Judge Hasbrouck says "the inference is inescapable" that the money paid to Mrs. Werner was that of Miss Morosini.

Miss Morosini married Werner less than four months after the Nevada decree of divorce had been granted to Mrs. Werner. After a time she threatened to return to the police force, and she agreed to pay him $10,000 a year during his life if he would not. Later she learned that the Nevada divorce granted to Mrs. Werner, the first wife, was illegal, and was also informed that Werner was living with her; so she shut the gates of her estate against him and stopped payments under the $10,000-a-year agreement. He sued her to recover under that agreement, and last December they agreed to settle all claims between them by the payment to Werner of $55,000.

About the same time Miss Morosini began an action for annulment of her marriage to Werner, and then the venue of the action in Sullivan county Judge Hasbrouck appointed Judge G. A. Atkins referee to take the testimony and report to the court, and on February 19 a motion was made to confirm Atkins's report, which was in favor of Miss Morosini.

Judge Hasbrouck discusses three questions in his opinion: First, if the Nevada divorce is valid in New York state, second, if invalid, can it be attacked collaterally; third, is it proper under the circumstances that Miss Morosini have the relief she seeks.

Werner's conduct, which comes in for annulment by Judge Hasbrouck, and whether Miss Morosini came into court "with clean hands" are discussed at length in consideration of the third question raised by Judge Hasbrouck, who explains in full is as follows:

Judge Hasbrouck's Opinion.
Guilia P. Morosini, sometimes called Guilia M. Werner, plaintiff, against Arthur M. Werner, defendant.—Action for annulment of marriage. Appearance—Sponsor: A. Cotton, Esq., attorneys for plaintiff; Henry S. Dottenheim, Esq., attorney for defendant.

Hasbrouck, J.
Arthur M. Werner, the defendant, married Alice Redding in 1897. In 1907 he was a mounted policeman of the city of New York located at Kingsbridge. In that year he made the acquaintance of Guilia Morosini and in the same year became superintendent of the Morosini estate. In the fall of 1909 Giovanni Morosini, father of Guilia, a prominent financier of New York city, died. This acquaintance immediately upon its being formed ripened into such a relation that Werner on the strength of it secured money from Miss Morosini right along for the asking. As heir of her father Guilia came into the possession of an income of $75,000 a year. In September, 1910, Werner arranged with his wife to procure a divorce in the state of Nevada from him. The decree was secured. Werner went to Nevada about the 20th of September and his wife arrived at Reno two or three days afterwards and a decree was signed September 27. The laws of the state of Nevada at that time required a bona fide residence of six months in Nevada before a domicile could be obtained entitling a party to institute a suit for divorce. Upon entering the decree Werner caused $15,000 to be paid his wife. Miss Morosini swears she never knew of this circumstance until she read it in a newspaper several years afterwards. Miss Morosini and the defendant Werner had a marriage ceremony performed between them at Somerville in the state of New Jersey, January 12, 1911.

After the ceremony the defendant was entrusted with the expenditure of Miss Morosini's income of $75,000 a year; to pay it out to meet the expenses of maintenance; for Miss Morosini's requirements; and he was permitted to draw against the said sum for his own uses provided he acquainted Miss Morosini of the amount drawn. This limitation of his power after awhile became irksome and disagreeable and he threatened to return to the police force unless provision for his compensation as superintendent was made. July 15, 1912, Miss Morosini, in consideration of his consenting not to re-enter the police department of the city of New York, agreed to pay him $10,000 in each year quarterly on the first days of July, October, January and April during his natural life. The plaintiff paid the defendant the quarterly installments of $2,500 each due under said agreement up to and inclusive of the one due on January 15, 1914. On or about April 1st of that year, she consulted Joseph P. Cotton, of the plaintiff's attorneys, Spooner, Cotton, and upon that day excluded the defendant Werner from the premises either because as she testified she was not satisfied that he was with his first wife or because Werner said "I (plaintiff) was not his wife" or because Mr. Cotton informed her that in his opinion Werner's Nevada divorce was invalid and that he had no legal right to marry her.

Upon the plaintiff's refusal to pay the defendant the quarterly installment of $2,500 due April 15, 1914, he brought suit against her to recover the same. That suit is still at issue.

On or about the 14th day of December, 1915, plaintiff and defendant entered into an arrangement, stated in general terms, by which he agreed to settle "all claims, actions and suits of either party against the other" by the payment to the first party by the second party of the sum of $55,000 in return for which the actions for quarterly installments are to be dismissed and mutual releases to be executed.

No proper disposition of the suit at bar can be made without consideration of the character of the parties to it. Arthur M. Werner, the defendant, active business man, long one of the guardians of the peace of society, is described by one of the witnesses to be "a very intelligent person" and a "highly forceful man." Guilia Morosini is described to be "an Italian of very little education and of mental development insufficient to understand the legal points of her relations to Werner," and further as a "weak woman." Mr. Cotton swears the lady was very much dominated by Mr. Werner.

Werner's conduct in being willing to divorce his first wife, Alice Redding; to receive from the courts of Nevada a divorce which he and his attorney must have known, based on a seven days' visit to that state, to be illegal; in purchasing his wife to consent thereto; in suffering his wife in her bill of complaint in the Nevada court to swear that she "is an actual and bona fide resident and inhabitant of the state of Nevada" residing in the city of Reno, Washoe county, state of Nevada, and in swearing in his answer that he "admits defendant (himself) resides at Carson city, Ormsby county, state of Nevada, and within the above named judicial district;" being willing to receive large sums of money from Miss Morosini prior to his marriage to her; in forcing an agreement from her for $10,000 a year by a representation of procuring reinstatement in the police force; and finally in inducing her to enter into an agreement to pay him $55,000 in consideration of a release, reveals a character unusually despicable. One cannot read the record of this affair and miss the inference that Werner's sole purpose through it all was to exploit Miss Morosini for the purpose of securing as much as possible of the Morosini patrimony.

The facts above set forth suggest several questions which should be disposed of before reaching a determination as to a proper decree in the premises.

First—Is the decree of divorce between Alice Werner and Arthur M. Werner a valid decree in the state of New York?

Second—If invalid may such decree be attacked collaterally?

Third—Is it under the circumstances proper that Miss Morosini should have the relief she asks?

The District Court of the State of Nevada had jurisdiction of the parties in the action of Alice Werner against Arthur M. Werner for the annulment of her marriage to him. But jurisdiction to dissolve the ties of marriage between citizens of other states does not exist unless the court possesses jurisdiction on the subject matter of the action—the marriage relation.

Maynard vs. Hill, 125 U. S. 130.

However, the wife although she submitted herself to the jurisdiction of the court never obtained a domicile in Nevada and thus had no right to institute a divorce action. The "domicile of matrimony" was and remained in New York state. The District Court of the State of Nevada was then wholly and entirely without authority or jurisdiction to interfere with the relation of a matrimony of parties domiciled in and citizens of New York. Mr. Justice White, now chief justice of the United States Supreme Court states the reason clearly in Haddock vs. Haddock, 210 U. S. 563:

"This becomes clear when it is perceived that if one government perceived that if one government over its own citizens has the right to dissolve the marriage tie as to the citizens of another jurisdiction, it must follow that no government possesses as to its own citizens power over the marriage relation and its dissolution. For if it be that one government in virtue of its authority over marriage may dissolve the tie as to citizens of another government, other governments would have a similar power, and hence the right of every government as to its own citizens might be rendered nugatory by the exercise of the power which every other government possesses."

The action brought by Alice Werner in Nevada against her husband was perfectly barren of any legal result. The Nevada action was without force. There was no divorce. Alice and Arthur remained husband and wife.

The second question is, "May such a decree be attacked collaterally?" Suggestion has been made that it may not. That for the court to suffer it would be to ignore the far-reaching and beneficial provisions of the full faith and credit clause of the constitution of the United States. I think that it is well settled that when the only complaint against a judgment or decree of a sister state is that it is the result of fraud or collusion—the court having had jurisdiction of the parties and subject matter—such judgment may not be attacked collaterally. The vindication of the judgment undoubtedly remains for the court of the state out of which it is issued.

Rupp vs. Rupp, 156 A. D. 390.

But Rupp vs. Rupp is not authority in the case at bar. The circumstances of that case were that the plaintiff had obtained a domicile and the right therefore to bring suit for divorce in South Dakota and that the defendant personally appeared therein. Thus that court had jurisdiction both of the parties and subject matter. The Nevada court had not. Consequently the full faith and credit clause of the constitution may not be invoked to defeat the plaintiff here. The right to attack a judgment of the court of a sister state collaterally should not be denied the litigant where jurisdiction to make the decree did not exist in such court. This it was said in Thompson vs. Whitman, 18 Wallace, 457:

"We think it is clear that the jurisdiction of the court by which a judgment is rendered in any state may be questioned in a collateral proceeding in another state, notwithstanding the provision of the fourth article of the constitution and the law of 1790 and notwithstanding . . ."

Rose vs. Himely, 4 Cranch, 241-269. Andrews vs. Andrews, 188 U. S. 35 and cases cited. Guggenheim vs. Wahl, 203 N. Y. 330.

The third question involving as it does the propriety of action upon the part of the court has been the most difficult to solve. It does not follow that because a party has a right she is entitled to a remedy, for she may have been guilty of conduct so unseemly and unbecoming as to have precluded herself beyond the pale of consideration for relief. If the action for an annulment were a statutory one, to which equitable principles were not applicable, the right of plaintiff to an adequate remedy would be indisputable. But this is an action for annulment and in such actions it has been held the supreme court has the power of its predecessor court of chancery. In discussing the right to relief of a man who had knowingly contracted a bigamous marriage, Justice Clark now presiding justice of the appellate division, first department, said:

"I take it, therefore, that the doctrine is still true that while its entire jurisdiction in matrimonial causes is conferred and regulated by statutes, yet in the exercise of that jurisdiction, unless controlled by positive enactment it proceeds as a court of equity."

Berry vs. Berry, 130 A. D. 514.

This brings us to a consideration of the conduct of Miss Morosini. It is certain that she knew of the marriage of Werner to Alice Redding. The inference is inescapable that the money paid her to consent to the Nevada decree was that of the plaintiff here. Are these circumstances enough to say to her the court will not hear you—you come not "with clean hands." Where the uncleanness is that of fraud and collusion it has been held that relief should be denied.

Rupp vs. Rupp, supra.

Berry vs. Berry, supra.

But where the decree complained against was defective from a jurisdictional standpoint, I have not seen it held that a bill of relief might not be entertained.

However that may be I am not satisfied that Miss Morosini knew that her money was being used for Werner to buy a divorce from Alice Redding. I am satisfied that she has no intellectual strength; that she is a weak woman; that the defendant, in the days of her mature womanhood, made love to her and that reciprocating and under the spell of the "sublime passion" she became the easy prey of this "forceful man," the defendant. She wanted plainly only affection. He wanted nothing but money. From whatever angle we hold these circumstances up to view, the motive in this drama is real life there should be no difficulty in excupulating an unfeeling player.

For all the wrongs this woman and the court of a sister state have been subjected to, the court here can furnish no adequate remedy. The least that can be given is a judgment of annulment.

Judgment for plaintiff with costs.

MISS BARBARA THAW.

NEW YORK SOCIETY GIRL TO WED NAVAL OFFICER.

New York, March 13.—One of the early spring weddings that is interesting society is that of Miss Barbara Thaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Blair Thaw, and Lieutenant Scott B. MacFarlane, U. S. N. The wedding will take place in the Church of the Heavenly Rest on April 23.

Miss Thaw's sister, Miss Beatrice Thaw, was married to the Marquis Francesco Theodoli and lives in the Castello di Ciciliano, Preno, Rome, Italy. Her second sister is Miss Katherine B. Thaw. She is also a niece of Benjamin Thaw of Pittsburgh and New York. Her mother is an accomplished artist and was before her marriage Miss Florence Dow.

Miss Thaw made her debut a year ago at a dance given by her mother. She has played in many amateur entertainments for charity and has spent much time abroad.

Lieutenant MacFarlane is attached to the Oklahoma, now on temporary duty at the Torpedo Station, Newport.

ROCKING CHAIRS.

At First They Were Crude Affairs, Just Patched Up Armchairs.

"The history of the rocking chair is yet to be written," says Walter A. Dyer in "Early American Craftsmen." According to some writers, rockers began to appear in this country before 1750, and Windsor rockers soon after the Revolution. Others assert that Windsor rockers were not made until about 1810 and that most of the so-called Windsor rocking chairs are simply old armchairs cut down and fitted with rockers. Certainly none of the early advertisements or inventories included any mention of rocking chairs.

"The first rockers were merely short boards cut straight across the top and rounded on the bottom. Then the top side was shaped, and later the rocker was fashioned much as that of today, except that it extended only four or five inches back of the rear legs. It was not until 1820 or so that the discovery was made that rockers lengthened behind increased the safety and comfort of the chair. During the decade following that astonishing discovery the popularity of the rocking chair spread rapidly."

An English lady visiting the United States a few years ago declared that one of the most curious sights to her upon her landing was the rocking chair, to which at first she feared to intrust herself, but later learned to enjoy most thoroughly.

EARLY RAILROADING.

The First American Made Locomotive Was Built in 1830.

The first locomotives in the United States were brought over from England by Horatio Allen of New York in the fall of 1829 or the spring of 1830, and one of them was set up on the Delaware and Hudson railroad at Carbondale, Pa.; but, being found too heavy for the track, its use was abandoned.

The first locomotive constructed in this country was built by the West Point foundry at New York in 1830 for the South Carolina railroad and named the Phoenix. A second engine was built the same year by the same establishment and for the same railroad and named the West Point.

In the spring of 1831 a third engine was built by the same establishment for the Mohawk and Hudson railroad from Albany to Schenectady and called the De Witt Clinton. This was the first locomotive run in the state of New York.

The first Stephenson locomotive ever imported into this country was the Robert Fulton. This engine was brought out in the summer of 1831 for the Mohawk and Hudson railroad. It was subsequently rebuilt and named the John Bull.

The Mystery of a Duel.

Having fought his duel and saved his honor by firing a shot in the air, the editor of a French provincial newspaper went back to his desk, and the incident had quite left his mind when he felt something strange in his thigh. He looked and found that he was bleeding profusely. A doctor was called, who discovered that a bullet was imbedded in the editor's thigh some two inches deep and required extraction. "Why was this not taken notice of on the spot where the duel took place?" he asked. The editor was as much in the dark as the doctor. At the moment of the duel he had fired into the air, and his adversary also took a distracted sort of aim. The editor felt nothing as he left the field and had shaken hands with his antagonist as a sign of reconciliation. How a bullet came to be lodged in his thigh was simply one of the mysteries of dueling.

HIS CHEF D'OEUVRE

It Gained Him a Reputation Which Profited Him Not

By ESTHER VANDEVEER

George Ashley at twenty-two was an artist with a highly artistic temperament. He had been brought up among women who were of the very best, and he idealized woman in the abstract. Having had nothing to do with others, he knew nothing about them. Indeed, he had his own conceptions of the spiritual beauty of a good woman and knew neither her strong points nor her foibles. Possibly he might have come nearer the composite of an excellent woman had not his associates been very youthful and their characters not entirely formed.

Ashley was ambitious to paint a picture of his ideal of womanhood. He did not care to portray a Madonna; there were already sufficient Madonnas in the world, some of them painted by artists that he could not hope to emulate. He desired to give his ideal the garb of the twentieth century. His conceptions were like a flock of birds, flying in the air and refusing to remain quiet long enough to be photographed. Genius must have a foundation on which to build, and when the foundation is established there must be a starting point. A novelist who evolved in words one of the great pictures of the world said that he paced the floor for days dreaming it, but had he not finally begun to write his dreams would never have been anything but dreams.

Where was George Ashley to find a woman through whose physical perfection shone this purity that he wished to depict? He was not rich, but had the means to go about looking for his model. This he did. He visited different countries. On the street, in hotels, in public gardens, he was constantly peering into the faces of women he met looking for that which would serve to concentrate his dreams and reduce them to reality. Many a countenance he noticed, thinking that it was the one he wanted, but on examination was found deficient. Friends became interested in his search, and his attention was called by different persons to a number of women who it was supposed might serve his purpose.

The artist while in Florence, Italy, having run short of funds, established a studio for the purpose of keeping in practice and recouping his finances. He soon achieved some reputation as a portrait painter and received orders enough to maintain him and keep him reasonably busy.

One day an American lady and her daughter came in to his studio, the mother saying that he had been recommended to her to paint her daughter's portrait.

If Miss Helen Laurence was not beautiful she was at least comely. Ashley looked at her inquiringly, as he did at all women who might possibly serve his great purpose, but saw nothing in her face to indicate that he had found his model. After an inspection of pictures he had made Mrs. Laurence took him aside and made a bargain with him to make a full length portrait of her daughter, offering a price which was at once accepted, for Ashley's ideas of money were more vague than was his ideal of a good woman.

When Miss Laurence appeared for her first sitting she was arrayed in spotless white clinging drapery that showed her fine figure to the best advantage. Her countenance was of the simplest. All that dress could do to represent purity was effected. Then, too, the girl's face was stamped with innocence. She looked with her blue eyes into those of the artist with a perfect trustfulness.

"Paint me as I am," she said to him. "Don't flatter me. If you should make a Madonna of me I should not like it. I am imperfect, and a perfect person represented on the canvas would not be I."

abled him to perceive a perfect embodiment of purity.

When the picture was finished it was a marked success, not as a portrait, but as a representation of purity. The model's mother accepted it without comment, though it was not a likeness of her daughter, for it was a beautiful picture. It was placed in a conspicuous position and much admired, but few of those who were acquainted with the subject recognized it as her portrait.

Meanwhile Ashley had become so absorbed in his model that he failed to be elated with his success. During the last sittings his subject, by frequent casting down of her eyes under his gaze, by pointing her pretty lips at any inattention on his part, had given evidence that her innocent heart had gone out to meet his. Since he was poor and had not yet made a name for himself in his profession, he hesitated to declare his love.

Nevertheless he was unable to tear himself away from Miss Laurence, nor did she seem inclined to part with him. After the finishing of her portrait, or rather, his conception of purity, he was unable to work. The mornings usually found him in one of the galleries, where he expected to meet the girl who had captivated him. He was seldom disappointed, though she was not always alone. While she was sitting for him, so far as he knew her time was exclusively his own, but now that she had no engagements with him she was free to go about with whom she liked, and since he was not occupied he had an opportunity to meet her in other company.

Although Ashley suffered the pangs of jealousy upon seeing Miss Laurence with other cavaliers, she always reassured him with one of her sweetest smiles on such occasions and not infrequently would make it plain to him that she wished him to join her. When relieved of her other attendant she would take him to the Boboli gardens, in rear of the Pitti gallery, than which there is no more fitting place for lovers. These gardens are representative of the medieval method of cultivating shrubbery and flowers. The perfume of the latter alone is conducive to love.

In the evening they would walk together on the Arno embankment, which when the lamps are lighted is as near fairyland as any real scene that can be produced. But it was in the apartment occupied by Miss Laurence and her mother, where the lovers were alone together, that Ashley broke down and confessed his love and his fears.

She received this confession and his fears with no definite response.

He was hoping one morning that a reputation would come from his masterpiece to enable him to muster courage to propose to his model, when, taking up a morning journal, he saw an announcement that a young American had the night before committed suicide by jumping from the Ponte Vecchio, a medieval bridge, into the Arno. It was hinted that the young man had taken himself off for love of a fair countrywoman. Ashley recognized the name of a man he had seen with Helen Laurence one day in the gallery of the Pitti palace and to whom he had been introduced by her.

As an American being condemned to his duty to go to the lodgings of the young man to learn if anything was to be done in the premises. On reaching the house—a pension on the Lung Arno, which means in English the Arno embankment—he made inquiries of the proprietor. He told the artist that the suicide's mother and sister were there and a brother was expected during the day.

"I noticed," said Ashley, "that an American lady was the cause."

"Yes, signor, the lady whose portrait is now attracting so much attention. This episode will likely make the artist's fortune."

Ashley seemed turned to marble. He stood looking at the man as if stricken by some fearful calamity. The other, who was handing a key to a guest at the moment, did not notice his changed appearance and continued:

"The American is not the only one who has suffered from this same cause. An Englishman made a great ado when the lady refused him, and one of our own citizens, a prince, fell into the same pit. Among her victims she is named La Belle Dame Sans Merci, after an English poem."

Ashley staggered out into the open air. Standing with a hand on the stone coping that protects the sidewalk from the river, it seemed for awhile as if he would be another victim to La Belle Dame Sans Merci. But presently, steadying himself by the coping, he walked slowly in the direction of his studio.

The idle prediction of the landlord was fulfilled. The story attached to his picture of purity was well known, and every one visited it from curiosity if for no other reason. Since the name of the artist was attached to it, he might have taken advantage of the reputation it gave him to make a fortune, but he never painted another picture and was never seen again in Florence after that morning.

After the suicide a story concerning Miss Laurence's part in the matter was hushed up. It appears that, having heard of the young American who was hunting for a model of purity, she made a bet that she would win the picture and that it would be a success. She, too, left Florence immediately after the tragedy and returned to America, where it is to be hoped she repented of her many sins.

Old Hair Styles.

Some of the New Hebrides people do their hair up in a bunch on the top of the head and stain it yellow, while the inhabitants of the Ombai islands pass it all through a tube, so as to make a kind of plume. The Marquesas chief's favorite method is to shave all the head except two patches, one over each temple, where he cultivates two horns of hair. No doubt this is to render him more a thing of terror to his enemies than admiration to his friends. His reason for shaving the rest of the head is to allow more space for tattoos, as if all the available skin of the body were not enough for decorative purposes.—London Standard.

The Drug, Caffeine, In Coffee Is A Habit-Forming Agent

Bulletin 393 U. S. Department of Agriculture, entitled "Habit-Forming Agents," referring to caffeine and other ingredients used in the manufacture of certain soft drinks, headache mixtures, etc., says:

"Until recently it was claimed by some that these agents were harmless and did not belong to the habit-forming group. Later investigations, however, clearly show that this position is unwarranted."

The average cup of coffee contains about 2.1-2 grains of caffeine. Mothers give it to their children and wives give it to their husbands—unconscious of the harm coffee does to your health.

When the nerves cry out, or indigestion, or biliousness, headache or heart flutter, begin to trouble, it's time to look to the cause.

Any easy, sure way out of coffee troubles is to quit the coffee, and use

POSTUM

—the pure cereal food-drink

There are two forms of Postum. The original Postum Cereal must be boiled; Instant Postum is quickly soluble in hot water, more convenient to prepare, and has the same rich flavor as the original Postum. Some prefer one form, some the other; both are free from the habit-forming drug, caffeine, or any other harmful substance, and the cost per cup is about the same.

PLANS MADE FOR CHURCH MINSTRELS

A meeting was held Sunday afternoon of the Senior and Junior Holy Name Societies of St. Joseph's Church and plans were made for the annual minstrel show which is given by the parish. The date set for the show will be Monday and Tuesday, May 1 and 2, in St. Joseph's school hall. At the meeting yesterday the preliminary arrangements were made and rehearsals will shortly begin.

The show will be much better this year than in former years, and there will be a slight change of plans this year. Several special features will be introduced and the usual minstrel program will be augmented with a number of new features beside the old custom of songs and jokes.

The jokes are being prepared and will be new, of course, the latest songs and music will be given and in every way the blackface amusement producers of St. Joseph's parish promise to outdo all former shows. David Freer has been appointed a committee of one to take charge of the arrangements and rehearsals and shortly begin under his supervision in order to have the program in excellent order for the first presentation.

The ladies of the Children of Mary Sodality will have charge of the refreshments which will be placed on sale during the dancing which will follow the big show.

For a number of years the annual minstrel show of St. Joseph's Church has been one of the biggest and best minstrel performances given in the city by local talent and plans for this year's show call for an even more elaborate program. The cast of characters is chosen with the greatest care and every number on the program is new, bright and snappy. That the hall will be filled to capacity on both nights is a certainty.

REPORT ON PALISADES PARK.

Commissioners and Counsel Given $10,000 and $10,500 Fees.

Confirmation of the findings and awards of the Palisades Park Commission of $2,325,000 for land condemned for state park purposes along the Hudson on the Palisades, was asked by the commissioner before Judge Morschauser. Mortgages of $4,500,000 are assumed in addition to the cash payment. Each of the three commissioners, Judge Edgar M. Cullen, Judge Frank L. Young and Walter G. Hamilton, county treasurer of Rockland county, was granted $10,000 for services, while Judge Hatch, whose contract calls for $500 a day while he served and $250 when consulted, was granted $16,500. Judge L. J. Arnold, attorney for mortgagees, asked $21,000, but the court took the request under consideration.

BOY SCOUTS AID CIRCLES OF MERCY

The following articles have been sent out this month by the Kingston Circles of Mercy, now acting as a branch of the National Surgical Dressings Committee, to New York, to be forwarded to France:

10 packages of bandages, 10 in a package.
10 bottles.
12 packages gauze metres, 10 in a package.
2 scarfs.
100 bars tampons, 10 in a bag.
15 fracture pillows.
24 packages absorbent pads, 5 in a package.
19 packages oakum pads, 5 in a package.

These were sent out on Thursday last, March 9.

Boy Scouts Help Work.

Last Saturday there were 29 Boy Scouts at the Y. M. C. A. building busily engaged in picking oakum for the making of pads, and this aid from the boys means a very great help in the work, as heretofore the making of pads has been hampered sadly because there was not sufficient oakum ready to be made up. On Saturday last Fred Port, of Troop 2, acted as captain, there being 14 boys from Troop 1, 13 boys from Troop 2, and 2 boys from Troops helping with the work. Hereafter the names of the individual boys who aid in this work will be published.

Objects to Y. M. C. A. Movies.

A petition has been filed with the Chamber of Commerce asking that body to take steps toward the abolition of moving pictures now operated in connection with the Y. M. C. A. One moving picture manager is said to have signed the document. He asks action, it is said, on the ground that the organization is semi-public and is entering into competition with his private business.

To Clean, Dress and Paint Up.

The Middletown Chamber of Commerce has planned a "Clean-up and Paint-up Week." A "Dress-up Week" for fashion displays and windows is to begin March 27th.

Play at New Hurley.

The circle of New Hurley will repeat the play entitled "The Great Winter Mine," Tuesday evening, March 14, at the New Hurley Church.

Projecting Your Personality.

Can any man's life be held to be incomplete if it is continued in the life of a friend? Was Arthur Hallam's life incomplete when Tennyson prolonged it forever by "In Memoriam" or the life of Socrates when Plato continued it in his immortal dialogues? Confucius said wisely, "Have no friends not equal to yourself." By that he must have meant, "Make your friends equal to yourself by giving them freely of your best." Thus you make sure of a continued life whatever happens to yourself, as a manufacturer trusts the secrets of his manipulations to his younger partners.—Christian Herald.

Soldiers in Napoleon's Day.

There are five things that a soldier should never be without—his gun, his cartridge, his knapsack, rations for four days and his plover tools. The knapsack should be reduced to the smallest possible weight and size and contain only a shirt, a pair of shoes, a collar, a handkerchief and a flint of steel. This is not much, but he should never part from them, for when once lost they cannot be recovered.—Napoleon.

One Way.

"New, Johnny," said the teacher. "Suppose you wanted to build a $1,000 house and had only $500 what would you do?"

Two Finds.

"I found a ten dollar bill this morning." "That shows you are lucky. Have a gift for finding things?" "My gift stuck by me too long. Next I found the owner."—Louisville Courier Journal.

Flavoring With Corncobs.

In making succotash, scrape the corn from the cobs and add a little cold water to it, making it as creamy as possible. Then place the cobs in the kettle with the beans and boil until time to put in the corn. The result will be a sweetness and creaminess not usually found in succotash.

SHARKEY EXPECTS MORAN TO WIN BY KNOCKOUT.

San Francisco, March 13.—Tom Sharkey, the former pugilist, who fought Jeffries, Fitzsimmons and Corbett expects Frank Moran to win from Champion Jess Willard, by a knockout, when the two meet in the ring in Madison Square Garden, New York, on March 25.

"I have seen both men box and I really believe that the challenger from Pittsburgh is much the cleverer," says Sharkey. "Moran is an inch over six feet; Willard is six inches taller. Jess weighs 270 pounds or thereabouts, and I cannot see how he can be in condition and carry that much weight."

"I know that Moran has a knockout punch and I think he will land it before the ten rounds are over. But even if he does not win by a knockout, I favor Frank to get the popular decision."

"I cannot see how a boxer who could not win from Gunboat Smith, a light heavyweight, can expect to win from a big fellow like Moran. Smith weighed something like 180 pounds when he boxed Willard twenty rounds out here on the coast, and Willard was too easy for him. And Moran surely carries a fight to an opponent much harder and faster than Smith does."

"Any man who weighs 190 pounds, about the weight of Jim Mace and John L. Sullivan when they were at their best, is big enough to lick anybody."

Father Paul at St. Joseph's.

The Rev. Father Paul James Francis of St. Peter's Friary, Garrison, N. Y., will deliver the first of a series of Lenten sermons tomorrow evening at St. Joseph's Church, when his topic will be "The Soul and Sin." Throughout the Lenten season these services will be conducted by Father Paul James Francis on each Tuesday evening. All Christian men and women are invited to attend these services. There will be music and congregation singing at the service.

Great Is Richards.

Alma Richards, the great Cornell athlete, is a heroic figure of games and fearlessness.

Early in his youth, Richard indulged in various sports—and invariably was injured. His left leg was sprained four times and his right leg twice. Once he broke some of the small bones in his right leg in the same accident that dislocated his wrist.

"The first time I tried a high jump, I broke my left leg above the knee," said Richards. "I was on crutches four months. The doctors told me then I ought to quit athletics—that my bones were too brittle."

But Richards ignored the advice, took a chance of permanently injuring himself—and today he ranks one of the greatest all-around athletes in intercollegiate history.

Richards won the high jump in the 1912 Olympics and in 1915 captured the all-around championship in A. A. U. competition in San Francisco. Last summer he established a new intercollegiate high jump record in Philadelphia and he ranks with the best men in the world in weight heaving, pole vaulting, hurdler and broad jumping.

The most remarkable feature of Richards' achievements is that he has become a star despite the handicap of a leg that is partially crippled. The bone break that followed Richards' first high jump did not knit evenly. Instead, the broken parts met each other at an angle, forming a clumsy "Y" which protrudes to a point just beneath the skin on Richards' leg.

New Orleans Meet a Success.

"Brigadier General" Will Hamilton, commander-in-chief of the sporting staff of the New Orleans item, sends us this:

"Reports sent up north that the race meeting in the Louisiana metropolis wasn't a money-maker are untrue. The session here this winter was one of the most prosperous in many years. Those back of it are said to have cleared $100,000 to $150,000. 'Ladies' Day' was a tremendous success and the fair sex have become enthusiastic lovers of the turf game."

Barrow's Scheme Works.

Ed. G. Barrow, proxy for the international League, feels confident that his new plan to solve the salary limit problem will be successful.

The league rules fixes the maximum monthly salary limit at $3,500. In other years tail-end magnates have charged that the leaders secretly were exceeding the limit, thus securing high grade talent.

Barrow's rule now forces the magnates to send all contracts to him and he then sends them to the players after making sure that the total salary for each club does not go beyond the limit.

MIDGETS LOSE; VARSITY SCARED

The high school Varsity and Midget basketball fives took an excursion up the river to Hudson Saturday and instead of the usual "tired and happy" return homeward at night, it was a sad and melancholy looking group of athletes which hit Kingston, the Midgets losing their first game of the year by the sad score of 35 to 18, and the high school barely noting out the Hudson five by a score of 32 to 31.

After successfully wading through 15 encounters on basketball courts along the Hudson valley, the Midgets met their worst bumper in the form of the Hudson Y. M. C. A. Juniors, who won from the locals, not because they were superior, but due to the fact that the locals did not play their hardest. It is mighty hard to admit defeat and we are willing to do it any time, but we are sure that our little fighters could have done better if they had fought in their usual hard way. The teamwork which has characterized their playing was sadly lacking and this spelled their downfall. The whole school sympathizes with the kids but is expecting a revival of the old form in the next few games. The youths were out for the championship of the Hudson valley and therefore the defeat was hard to swallow. The varsity squad was gloomy not because they won their game, but because the Midgets' defeat was a hard blow to their hopes for the Midget championship.

The Midget game was preliminary to that of the high schools, both being staged in the Hudson Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. This is the first instance of two local teams playing on the same floor out of town on the same day.

The whole Hudson team took a big part in the game as shown by the score. If the statistician was in his right mind, the Hudsonites hung up a mighty good record from the four line. They made 11 of their 13 chances good and we salute them with all due respect. If Martin had not been present, we would doubt that the local Midgets were alive in the game. Martin scored half of the 18 points. The score:

Varsity Gets a Scare.

Sporting folks might remember that earlier in the season the varsity team of the high school had easy picking when they walloped the Hudson team by a voluminous landslide of 92 points to 3 for Hudson. To travel to the up-river burg and come on top by one measly point seems almost an impossibility but that is what happened—at least the little blue book which contains the doings of the local team says so. Two reasons are given for this. Friday night the maroon and white went through a severe grilling when they beat the Crescent Five at the high school and were all in a poor physical condition for Saturday's game. The other is that just about three strange faces presented themselves in the Hudson lineup at Saturday's contest and we feel pretty sure that they have been long out of school. If we lost the game we would investigate their whereabouts during school hours but as we won the contest we will let it down on the credit side of our accounts for the final reckoning.

Although we felt like anything else than going through the harshship of a basketball game, we'll vouch for the fact that the locals displayed their true grit and fought their best. Anyway, the trip from Hudson to this city was more on the lines of a funeral procession than anything else.

A quint at the score shows that all the home lads did some good scoring and kept the honors well scattered. Johnson and Dolson each tied for high position in the scoring column, with ten points each.

The Hudson class had a grand array of nationalities. Pell, a son of Africa started off the list and he was fitted against our friend, John Falist. Hapeman and Brooksbank were proud to trace their ancestry to the Hohenzollerns in der Deutschland. The strict neutrality of Hudson was shown by the fact that Bevier, a French name, was allowed to be in the same list as the two above mentioned.

DITTUS WON GAME FOR THE CRESCENTS

Whenever this burg of ours builds a Hall of Fame, conspicuously carved in the sporting department will be the name of "Billy" Dittus, the Crescent guard, who almost single-handed won Saturday night's game at the armory between his team and the Kingston Five and the championship of the city for his crew. His 21 points scored were enough to win the game by a safe margin if his teammates did no scoring whatever and we doff our caps to Willie. The final score, 35 to 16, explains the one-sidedness of the game, which proved a great contrast to the first contest staged on the Y. M. C. A. court some time ago which the Crescents won by a small margin.

Because of Dittus' excellent eyesight the Crescents had the game under their wings most of the time. The Kingston basketballers seemed at loss in the big cage. Their unfamiliarity with the open baskets proved to be a big disadvantage for them where the winners were at home with baskets of this kind.

It was a sort of long-drawn affair but the 400 spectators were relieved from monotony by the pretty pass-work of the Crescents although they were a little "off" in shooting when within close proximity of the vital point.

Brawn was brought into use by the Crescents, who were giants beside the little fellows from the Y. M. C. A. They tore down the floor and easily shook off whatever obstacles there were to stop their progress. Several times when the Kingston rooters were preparing to see the leather swish into the basket, long armed Dittus or Spalt would simply raise their elongated appendages and impede the progress of the ball basketward.

Matty Bence, who held the official position of foul bamer, was right on the job and let few pass his notice. A total of 50 for the evening being called, which somewhat slowed the game.

Billy Cism, who, by the way, spends his past time working for The Freeman, entered the limelight by his speedy playing and garnered six points for the evening's work, two of them being from a hard shot at good distance from the basket. Spalt also played a hard game for his team and broke up a large number of the enemy's plays. Robinson, the Crescent forward, although scoring few points, helped to a great extent in the play, from toss up, and put up a good battle throughout.

For the Kingston Five Craig gets the honors, tallying most of the points, although he was at sea at the jump-up. Spalt overshadowing him in this respect because of his superior height.

The first half was more closely contested than the last, the score being 16 to 10 at half time. In the final period, the Crescents found their bearings and had matters their own way falling 19 points while their opponents were garnering six.

This was the last big game of the year and the big crowd enjoyed music furnished for dancing by McLean's eight piece orchestra.

Good Long Cut Means Good Long Smokes and Long Chews

That's LIBERTY every time. Just note how long a pipeful or a chew of LIBERTY lasts you.

Why? 'Cause LIBERTY is real Long Cut tobacco That makes it slow-burning in a pipe and gives it a chewable body that holds together in a chew.

LIBERTY is all pure, clean, good tobacco. No loose, hard stems in it—they're all picked out by hand.

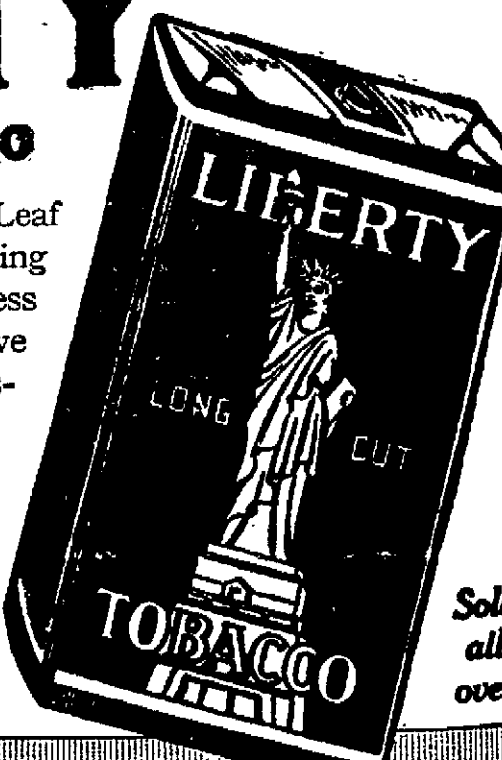

LIBERTY

Long Cut Tobacco

is made from pure Kentucky Long Leaf—no short or broken leaf is used. Ageing up to 5 years puts full-bodied richness and snap into LIBERTY that give sturdiness, two-fisted men the hearty satisfaction they want.

Stack LIBERTY up against bigger-looking packages—you'll always get more good smokes and chews cut of a package of LIBERTY. Just try it.
